AMERICANS DASH TO VICTORY OVER JOLO SULTAN AND FORCES

Battle Fought With Rebellious Moros on Jolo, One of the Philippine Islands, on Wednesday

ONLY SIX AMERICANS KILLED; TWELVE HURT

Brigadier General John G. Pershing Trains Mountain Artillery on Last Stronghold of Moros

(By Associated Press.)

MANILA, June 12.—The entrenchments of the rebellious Moros under the sultan of Jolo at Bazang were taken by the American forces today after a fierce battle in which the American casualties were six killed and twelve wounded.

The killed were two privates of Company M, eighth United States infantry, three members of the fifty-first company of scouts and one member of the twenty-ninth company of scouts. Lieutenant Edwin H. Rackley was wounded in the leg.

The casualties are regarded as light in view of the stubborn resistance put up by the Moros.

The attacking forces had been made up unusually strong as a precaution, there being in addition to the company of regular infantry, a troop of cavalry, seven companies of scouts, two companies of constabulary with a battery of four mountain guns and a machine gun platoon.

Although there remains one point still occupied in the mountain the mountain guns will be in a position to shell it easily. Brigadier General John G. Pershing, commander of the department of Mindiana, who led the forces, declares he will continue operations in Jolo until the tribesmen's guns have been taken and the island is peaceful.

General Wood Wires for Immediate Report of Fight

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 12.—General Wood has cabled to Major General Bell, commanding the Philippine division, for an immediate report upon the operations Brigadier General Pershing is conducting against the Moros in Jolo archipelago.

The war department knows nothing of the details of the operations. The distance from Zamboanga, the Jolo capital, to Manila is so great and communications so uncertain that reports from the scene are very meager.

INTERSTATE BOARD TO PROBE FRISCO RAILWAY

Searching Investigation by Interstate Commerce Commission to Be Made

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 12.—A searching investigation into financial operations of the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad system, in response to a resolution of the senate, is to be undertaken by the interstate commerce commission at once.

The inquiry will go deeply into relations of the Frisco lines with the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific; lay bare inside facts concerning the purchase of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois and develop those interesting to leases by the Frisco of subsidiary roads.

The resolution directing the inquiry was introduced by Senator Kenyon and passed by the senate Tuesday. Prior to this the commission had under consideration the matter of instituting an inquiry on its own initiative. Its authority so to do was unquestioned, but in view of litigation over the receivership of the Frisco lines and the disinclination of the commission to inject itself voluntarily into a situation that already was in the hands of the courts, it was deemed wiser to await affirmative direction by either the senate or the house, or both.

Immediately upon receipt of official notice of the passage of the Kenyon resolution, the commission set its machinery in motion. Preliminary work was begun yesterday in New York by agents of the division of carriers' accounts acting by direction of Commissioner Harlan, who is in charge of that branch o fthe commission's work.

The inquiry will deal with all operations of the Frisco lines since the reorganization of the system in 1896. That will include its relations with the Rock Island; its purchase of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, with what are regarded as the "peculiar" phases of that deal; and with the acquisition by the Frisco of leased lines at rentals which are declared by those familiar with them to be extravagant and unwarranted.

PROCEDURE OF PROBE.

Preliminary work in the inquiry will be conducted by the division of carriers' accounts. When its work shall have been concluded, a report will be made to the commission of all the facts developed. After that report the commission probably will issue an order directing a formal inquiry into the whole matter of the Frisco's financial operations. Hearings will be held and arguments heard.

A report then will be submitted to the senate with such comments and recommendations as may be suggested by the facts.

If operations in violation of the interstate commerce law should be disclosed by the inquiry, the commission, as the administrator of that law, may issue an order in the proceeding or submit evidence to the department of justice. The probability is that the inquiry will extend through many months.

FINANCE COMMITTEE INDORSES WILSON'S WOOL-SUGAR TARIFF

Democratic Majority of Senate Finance Committee Approves Sugar and Wool Schedules as in House Bill

MEANS THAT MEASURES WILL PASS THE SENATE

Free Wool Immediately and Free Sugar in Three Years Is the Tariff the Democrats Are Pledged to in Senate

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Free raw wool immediately and free sugar in three years as indorsed by President Wilson, adopted by the house were approved today by the majority members of the senate finance committee. The action sustaining the administration on both schedules was taken after amendments to alter them had been voted down.

Republican leaders in the senate are working hard in preparation for their fight against the Democratic tariff bill.

Senator Penrose is to lead the opposition on the floor after the bill is reported. Senator Smith of Michigan, is preparing to lead the fight against the sugar schedule and Senator Smoot will command the anti-free wool debate.

Senator La Follette, who has amendments which amount practically to a new bill, plans to make a speech that will extend over a week.

Majority members of the finance committee continued today their consideration of sub-committee changes in the Underwood bill, resuming discussion of the metal schedule. It was reported today that the sub-committee, in addition to putting pig iron and ferro manganese on the free list, also had transferred ingots and billets to the free list, because the house had put steel rails in the undutiable class.

NO BILL RETURNED AGAINST T. B. FELDER

Grand Jury Finds No Evidence That Attorney Was Carrying a Pistol

A "no bill" in the matter of charges that Thomas B. Felder, the Atlanta lawyer, had a concealed weapon about his person when he approached a physical encounter recently at the court house with Chief of Detectives Lanford, was returned by the Fulton grand jury, Thursday, clearing Mr. Felder of the implication.

The witnesses summoned before the grand jury in the Felder matter were Dr. Horace Grant, Deputy Sheriff Flennie Minor, and Newt Garner, an attache of the solicitor's office.

Before the members dispersed, Foreman L. H. Beck stated that the jurys session on Friday will be occupied with matters brought before it by the solicitor's office, and that very probably the jury cannot finish with that business in the one day.

"After that, when the jury gets time," said Foreman Beck, "it is going to investigate all other matters that the public good seems to demand."

Foreman Beck had nothing to say regarding the dictograph matter that is before the jury. He declined to talk regarding any specific matter. It seemed indicated, however, that The Journal's prediction that the dictograph matter will be taken up next week will be borne out.

"The jury is swamped with anonymous communications urging it to do this and that," said Foreman Beck. "The jury is composed of men who know their duty and are going to do it as well as they can."

Mrs. Felton Argues Own Cause for Land Before A United States Court

A white-haired Portia argued her cause before a United States jury in Atlanta Thursday morning. Mrs. W. H. Felton, distinguished writer and lecturer, made a direct appeal to the jury to protect her in her claim to certain property in litigation before the court of Judge W. T. Newman.

But she lost her cause, though she argued well and valiantly.

Mrs. Felton was the central figure in the case, which related to part of the land condemned in Fannin county, north Georgia, for a national forest reserve. The government bought the land from N. W. Gennett, who had bought it from the Bramlett heirs. Mrs. Felton's father was the original grantee of the land. Her claim was that he had not sold it to the Bramlett family. The jury held that the transfer to the Bramlett family was made legally, however, and that Gennett held good title for the sale to the government.

NATION'S WEALTHIEST COUPLE TURN ON GAS AND TAKE OWN LIVES

Switzerland Loses Wealthiest Man and Wife in Suicide Pact Discovered Thursday Morning at Zurich

EUGENE MAGGI BELIEVED TO COMMAND $10,000,000

Couple Had Been Married for a Number of Years, but a Childless Union Brought Disappointment

(By Associated Press.)

ZURICH, Switzerland, June 12.—Eugene Maggi and his wife, believed to be the wealthiest persons in Switzerland, committed suicide today, their act being actuated by sheer lack of interest in life.

Eugene Maggi was only forty-one years old and his wife thirty-five. The joint estates of the man and wife were estimated some time ago at $10,000,000, while quite recently Maggi inherited the income from a number of extensive factories.

The couple had been married for a number of years, but a childless union brought disappointment to both. Last night they retired to their bed room in their little villa here, turned on the gas and were found dead in the morning.

U. P. OFFERS S. P. FOR B. & O. R. R. STOCK

New Plan for Dissolution of Pacific Merger Proposed on Thursday

(By Associated Press.)

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 12.—Attorneys for the Union Pacific presented at the opening of the merger dissolution hearing today, a new plan for the disposition of $38,000,000 worth of Southern Pacific stock, to the Pennsylvania railroad, in exchange for $21,000,000 worth of Baltimore and Ohio stock.

Court adjourned without announcing a decision in the Union Pacific dissolution matter.

The new proposal was supplemental to two plans recently submitted. The amount of stock involved in the exchange represents about 1 per cent of the total Southern Pacific stock.

N. H. Loomis, of counsel for the Union Pacific, explained that the Union Pacific and the Southern Pacific were in reality as distinct as they ever could be; but the supreme court had ordered the Union Pacific to dispose of its Southern Pacific stock and the former road was doing its best to accomplish this. He said the Union Pacific did not guarantee to carry out either of the two principal plans proposed even though the court approved both of them. If it should be found that to follow either of them would involve too great a sacrifice to the Union Pacific stockholders, the disposition of the stocks would be left to the court.

"How long a time do you think the Union Pacific should be given to dispose?" inquired Judge Smith.

"I think the court should be liberal with us in the matter of time, because of the present condition of the money market," replied Mr. Loomis. He thought the road should have one year in which to offer the stock ancomplete disposition of it.

Attorney General McReynolds, in opposing plans proposed by the Union Pacific, said he regretted the railroads had been unable to effect a deal whereby the Union Pacific would acquire the Central Pacific in exchange for its Southern Pacific stock. He said this failure would compel the government to institute expensive litigation to compel the Southern Pacific to relinquish its hold over the Central Pacific.

N. Y., N. H. & H. Stocks Decline to 99 1-2

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 12.—A decline in New York, New Haven and Hartford stock to 99 1-2 shortly before noon was the feature of today's otherwise strong stock market. The decline represented a new low record for that stock and a loss of 3 points from yesterday's close.

No news accompanied the slump in New Haven but it was assumed to represent further liquidation on the part of discouraged stockholders.

B. & O. Terminal Many Miles From Pacific's

BY SHORES OF SILVER LAKE TWO CAMPERS BECOME MAN AND WIFE

Scene in front of the tent at Silver Lake Wednesday afternoon, where Miss Lettie Weignall was married to Benjamin B. Avery. Dr. W. O. Foster is shown shaking hands with the bride at the conclusion of the ceremony. The other girl in the picture is Miss May Alva Avery, the only attendant.

Unique Wedding Is Solemnized When Young Couple Decide to Wait No Longer, but to Make a Camping Trip Their Honeymoon

Two plunges were made Wednesday afternoon at Silver Lake—one into the water and another into the salt sea of matrimony.

On a little knoll a hundred yards from the landing at the Boys' club Miss Lottie Weignall and Benjamin B. Avery were made man and wife. The blue sky and the green branches of the trees formed their only roof, and the slow syllables of the marriage ceremony blended with the chuckle of the waves against the bank.

The scene was an Arcadia over which the spirit of Evangeline herself might have presided. Hand in hand at the foot of a tall pine tree the couple stood. The only attendant was the sister of the groom, Miss May Alva Avery; the only audience a group of campers who stood with bared heads while the simple ceremony took place.

The white tent nearby will be the abode of the newlyweds for the honeymoon. A cedar canoe moored to the landing place will take them on voyages of discovery around the protected borders of the lake far happier than a trip to Europe or Niagara Falls could be.

A week ago when Miss Weignall and Mr. Avery went on the camping trip to the lake with Miss Avery and her little brother, they had no idea of making it their honeymoon. They had known each other for years and had made plans to marry next fall and take an extended tour through the west.

But there is a certain spirit that broods over the waters of Silver Lake on clear moonlit nights which is the very essence of love itself. Silver Lake is really the toughest arrow in Dan Cupid's entire quiver, and one takes his heart in his hands when he chooses to sojourn there with a pretty girl, or it only for the shortest of canoe trips to the dam and back.

The very first time the feathery haltmoon hung low in the purple sky and the stars twinkled down through the pine tree branches, it was all up with Miss Weignall and Mr. Avery.

They telephone friends in Atlanta. J. J. McNeal, and entreated him to speed out to Silver Lake in his fastest automobile. Two things he must bring, a marriage license and a preacher.

They were ready for him when he arrived on the scene Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Avery had discarded his flannel shirt and camp trousers for his very best. Miss Weignall took off the middy blouse and donned a bride's dress of shimmering white.

Mr. McNeal had brought his preacher, the Rev. W. O. Foster, pastor of the West End Christian church. Shortly after 3 o'clock the young people were married, standing on the little knoll, the soft pine needles beneath their feet, the wind soughing a wedding march through the green branches, and the glistening sheet of water spread out before them.

Other campers were invited to the ceremony, and all joined in a congratulatory swim in the lake at its conclusion.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Weignall. The groom is the son of Mrs. Mollie S. Avery, of Decatur, Ga. To the parents of both the wedding is a complete surprise, and not until they read the paper will they know what has occurred.

Mr. Avery is in the employ of the L. W. Rogers company. He and his bride will continue their honeymoon at the lake for a week or so longer, and take a trip through the east and west later in the year.

WALTER H. JOHNSON QUITS AS U. S. MARSHAL JULY 1

Resignation After Six Years of Service Forwarded to Democratic Powers

After 16 years in the office of United States marshal in Atlanta, Walter H. Johnson has resigned to the new administration and will pass out of his office on June 30, with the close of the fiscal year.

Report that Howard Thompson, of Gainesville, had been selected by the Democratic administration now in power at Washington as the successor of Mr. Johnson, was published some time ago. More recently it was published that the department of justice had learned that Mr. Johnson succeeded Sam C. Dunlap, of Gainesville, on June 25, 1897, before Mr. Dunlap's term of office would have expired in the ordinary course of events, and that therefore the department expected to ask for Mr. Johnson's resignation on the anniversary of that date.

This request has been received and Mr. Johnson's resignation, effective June 30, has been forwarded to Washington within the past few hours, it is said.

5,000 Teachers Will Take Examinations

Between 4,000 and 5,000 candidates for school teachers' positions will begin taking their qualifying examination in Georgia Friday. These examinations, which will be held in every county will continue through Saturday.

For the first time those who wish to teach in the high school grades must pass examinations prepared by the state board of education. Out of approximately 12,000 teachers in the county schools only about 4,000 have qualified so that they will not be required to pass these examinations.

PROF. E. T. HOLMES MAY HEAD MERCER UNIVERSITY

Well-Known Barnesville Educator Will Likely Be Chosen to Mercer Presidency

While no definite announcement has been made as to who will succeed Dr. S. Y. Jameson, whose resignation as president of Mercer university was recently asked by the board of trustees, well founded rumors from authoritative sources have it that the mantle will fall upon the shoulders of Prof. E. T. Holmes, of Barnesville, Ga., who for a number of years occupied with distinction the chair of Latin at the Baptist institution.

It was during commencement week of the Georgia School of Tecnology that the report began to circulate. On Wednesday it was common talk in the city and the report soon found its way into the banquet hall of the Capital City club, where the chamber of commerce entertained the Tech graduates of 1913.

During commencement Prof. Holmes has been a prominent figure at nearly all of the exercises. He arrived in the city Monday and occupied apartments at the Piedmont hotel. Because of the rumor, that came directly from Macon, Ga., his presence added zest to the possibilities of it being true. Conspicuous through his tall figure and imposing appearance, the visitor has been the cynosure of many eyes and the subject of as many whispered conversations as the probable successor to Dr. Jameson.

The report whether true or not, has been received in Atlanta with acclaim by all with whom he has come in contact. He is known throughout the south as an educator of note and a man whose fitness for such an honor is unquestioned. Mercer alumni in this city, who were under him during their college days, hail the report with delight, and are free to admit that just such a man must be looked to to once more place

COURT'S ORDER MAY RESULT IN MEETING OF NEGRO AND FRANK

Jim Conley, Negro Sweeper, Accusing Witness in Phagan Case, Sure to Appear Before Judge Roan Friday A. M.

STATE MAY DEMAND THAT FRANK APPEAR THERE TOO

Through Judge's Order, Defense Gets Chance to Quiz Negro—State Then May Force Long-Sought Meeting

The probability that Leo M. Frank, accused of the murder of Mary Phagan, and Jim Conley, negro witness against him, may face each other Friday, developed Thursday morning from the acute situation which arose Wednesday when Judge L. S. Roan issued a rule nisi calling on any one to show cause why the negro Conley should not be released from the custody of the state. Solicitor Dorsey seeks the negro's release so as to avert the judge's expressed intention of remanding Conley to the county jail; but the solicitor does not seek the negro's liberty, nor does Conley want to get out of the hands of the police, nor does Conley's attorney, W. M. Smith, want him liberated.

The rather puzzling matter assumed this shape Thursday morning:

NEGRO SURETY TO BE THERE.

Conley, the negro, who says he does not want to go free, but who declares he is afraid to go back to the tower, is certain to be called into the hearing before Judge Roan at 10 o'clock Friday on the rule nisi.

The solicitor wants him there, it is expected, to prove alleged intimidation and threats against Conley on a former occasion when the two nights immediately following his confession the negro was confined in the Fulton county tower.

And the attorneys defending Frank want him there, it is expected with equal confidence, to learn from him all that he knows or claims to know about the case, which is precisely the thing that the solicitor's fight is aimed entirely to avoid. The Frank defense has published statements alleging that the negro himself is the principal in the murder and that he alone is guilty.

Therefore, with Conley in chambers before the judge, Solicitor Dorsey can, it is said, have Leo M. Frank brought there, because Frank is the first among those addressed in Judge Roan's rule nisi and the solicitor can find legal precedent for demanding that Frank speak his own accusations against the negro on that occasion.

Which would bring about the situation that the state and its officers constantly have been seeking to create since Conley first admitted that he wrote the notes found beside Mary Phagan's dead body, i. e., a face to face meeting between the negro and the man whom he accuses of the murder.

MAY END LEGAL CRISIS.

Thus may a real crisis in the Phagan investigation be reached Friday morning. If Judge Roan withdraws his rule nisi and grants the petition of Solicitor Dorsey without further hearing, if Conley is not summoned into court or is not recalled to the witness stand, the complicated meeting between accused and accuser will not take place. Otherwise, it seems to be very probable.

There is no doubt that the attorneys for Leo M. Frank will take active part in the proceedings. They are Luther Z. Rosser, Herbert Haas, and possibly others. None of them will discuss the matter for publication.

It is a safe assertion that if they do not address the court openly there will be other attorneys in court in behalf of the public, perhaps, who will do so and who will advance quite actively the points in which the attorneys defending Frank are interested. The probability will be not only to learn all that the negro knows or claims to know, but to show by his own testimony if possible that he committed the murder.

This hearing on the rule nisi, involving the first open battle between the state and the Frank defense, is set for

COLUMBUS PLAYS HOST TO GEORGIA DENTISTS

Interesting Report Is Made by President DeLos L. Hill, of Atlanta

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 12.—Columbus is the mecca for the dentists of Georgia this week. From every section of the state representatives arrived today for the forty-sixth annual convention of the Georgia State Dental society, which was called to order at 10 o'clock this morning in the parlors of the Rankin hotel by DeLos L. Hill, D. D. S., of Atlanta, president of the organization.

Mayor L. H. Chappell welcomed the visiting delegates on behalf of the city and Dr. J. W. Pierce on behalf of the local dentists. Response was made by Dr. S. W. Foster, of Atlanta. Following these opening exercises, reports of the officers were made, the report of President Hill being of unusual interest.

Dr. M. M. Forbes, of Atlanta, secretary of the society, submitted his annual report, as did also Treasurer Zirkle, of Atlanta, both of which were full of interest to the dentists.

Little business was taken up at the first session, following the appointment of committees, roll call and the collection of annual dues, and the convention was adjourned for the noon luncheon.

When the convention reassembled at 2:30 in the afternoon, reports of the special committees, including membership, and others were made and the reading and discussion of papers taken up.

The attendance is much larger than had been expected, there being near 200 delegates and visitors at the sessions, which continue through tomorrow and Saturday.

An interesting social feature of the gathering is to be the great banquet on Friday evening, which is being looked forward to with much pleasant anticipation.

A lantern lecture by Dr. C. C. Howard, of Atlanta, discussed by Dr. G. S. Turner and J. D. Eby, of Atlanta, and a similar lecture by Dr. Eby, of Atlanta, discussed by Drs. Mason, of Macon, and McKee, of Americus, were special features of last night's session of the convention.

DISAPPEARANCE OF BEER BAFFLES DALTON'S COPS

DALTON, Ga., June 12.—What became with nine barrels of beer is a mystery which is baffling the police force. Yesterday morning the beer was in a freight depot here, but one of the policemen who went to find out to whom it was consigned, suspecting blind tigerism, was refused permission to examine it. When he returned a half hour later the sheriff, Glenn, the permission to search the freight house was given; but the beer had disappeared. It had not been carted away, according to the police, but simply vanished. It has not been heard from since.

MACON, Ga., June 12.—Homer G. Wood, 21 years old and a former employee at Mallory Mill Supply company has filed suit against W. F. Stevens, Jr., for damages in the sum of $20,000. He claims that injuries he sustained several months ago when he was run down by an automobile operated by W. F. Stevens, Jr., have proven serious and that he may probably die at an early date.

Educators to Meet

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 12.—The society for the advancement of education in the south will hold its annual convention in Chattanooga June 18, 19, 20, according to a statement today by Professor H. E. Bierly, of this city, secretary of the movement.

Veal Cutlets May Become Rare When This Law Passes

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Convinced that the high prices of meat could be effectively reduced through the enactment of a law prohibiting the slaughter of calves, the chamber of commerce announced today its intention to appeal to congress for such legislation. Eminent physicians throughout the country will be asked to testify as to the unwholesomeness of veal as food, and their testimony will be submitted to congress when the crusade is launched.

Argentina, the chamber points out, has a law which prohibits the killing of a male beef animal until it is three years old and a female until six years old. Leaders in the movement contend that the slaughter of calves in the United States has not only raised the price of meats but is threatening its standing as a meat-producing country.

Open Parliament for Discussion of Matters Affecting Future of Organization

(By Associated Press.)

BALTIMORE, June 12.—Presentation of reports from commissions and committees to be followed by an open parliament for the discussion of matters affecting the future of the organization were the principal features of today's meeting of the convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America.

The report of the commission on divisional work went into plans for carrying out ideas adopted by the convention and urged co-operation among the various divisions.

ARKANSAS DOCTOR HELD AT ROME FOR BIGAMY

Rome Woman Charges Dr. W. B. Lowery's Powers of Persuasion Cost Her $300

ROME, Ga., June 12.—Dr. W. B. Lowery, an Arkansas physician, is under arrest in the Floyd county jail charged with bigamy. The doctor came to Rome several months ago, and married a Mrs. Emma Willis, a wealthy widow residing near Rome. It is alleged that when this marriage took place he had a living wife residing in Arkansas.

About three months ago, it is charged, he went to wife No. 1, stating that he had a good position in Alabama, but instead of going to that place he returned to Arkansas and joined wife No. 1. The Georgia wife, after he had been absent for several weeks and had failed to write her, put detectives on his trail and located him in Searcy, Ark. She alleges that by persuasion he secured $300 of her money which she had made by farming.

Mrs. Lowery has seven children by former marriages, three of her husbands having died and the fourth husband being the alleged bigamist. It is understood that Lowery will not ask for a committment trial and will go before the July term of the superior court for a hearing.

FEDERAL GRAND JURY IS READY FOR BUSINESS

MACON, Ga., June 12.—The United States grand jury for this division have been sworn in, and are now ready for the work, at this term, Judge Speer charged them yesterday reviewing the recent decisions of the federal courts, discussed the duty of the lawyer to his client, and stated that for the first time since he has been judge the verdict of a jury in his district of the court had been reversed. S. S. Dunlap was appointed foreman of the jury.

There is apparently little business for the grand jury and they will likely be discharged in a week's time.

Mr. John T. Erwin Dead

SENATE PROBERS VISIT MINES OF W. VIRGINIA

Ex-Governor Glasscock Fails to Arrive in Charleston and Delays Probe

(By Associated Press.)

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 12.—Five United States senators today started back into the West Virginia hills to view the "battle fields" of the local strike on Paint creek and Cabin creek. The failure of former Governor Glasscock to reach Charleston today resulted in disarranging the senate mine investigating committee's program, and preparations were made immediately for the trip to the mines.

A special train was provided and an itinerary was arranged which included many of the principal mines in the Paint creek and Cabin creek districts.

Before starting for the hills the committee heard several witnesses on the subject of interference with the postal service. John Goldsborough told that his letters had been opened at the High Coal postoffice in the Hoomer mine field.

Urged by their desire to cut as short as possible the hearings at Charleston, the committee members today planned to hear but a few of the small aray of witnesses summoned. The ruling of the committee that no witness should be compelled to answer questions tending to incriminate himself had the effect of eliminating much of the cross-examination of witnesses by the attorneys of the operators.

This became apparent in the examination of John Seachrist, a miner summoned to testify as to interference with the postal service.

Attorney Knight for the operators undertook to cross-examine him. He began with a discussion of the mine owners' plan of issuing scrip to miners as an evidence of work done, negotiable at the company stores. Seachrist said that to negotiate scrip for cash at a ten per cent discount was "a pretty good trade." Then Attorney Knight elicited that Seachrist had admitted that he was one of a party that attacked the village of Mucklow on February 10, of this year.

"How many men were there?" he asked.

"About one hundred," said the witness.

"Were they armed?"

"Yes."

"How many shots were fired?"

"Well I reckon I just could'nt say."

"Didn't you fire any shots?"

"Yes."

"With what?"

"With a gun."

"Where did you get it?"

"I bought it," said the witness, shifting a cud of tobacco, and rushing for the committee's official cuspidor. He explained that he bought the gun, "on the road" from a man he had never seen before, shortly after the strike began last April. Attorney Knight wanted to know who told him to go to Mucklow Hill to attack the town and where he got his ammunition for his gun. He said he just "happened along there" and that "most of his ammunition he bought in Montgomery."

At this point the questions brought the committee to its feet and resulted in a ruling that the witness need not answer questions bending to incriminate him. Attorney Knight wanted to know if Walter Diehl had ordered Seachrist to go to Mucklow Hill for the battle and if G. F. Parsons had furnished him and other men with ammunition. Neither question was answered. Attorney Knight urged in vain that he expects to prove "a conspiracy involving men now present before the committee" in connection with the Mucklow Hill battles. The committee hopes to conclude the hearings here this week.

TWO MEN DIE IN BELTING OF MILL

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 12.—A special from South Pittsburg, tenn., says that Dave Gibson, of that place, and Art Mickam, of Bridgeport, Ala., lost their lives at the plant of the Dixie Portland Cement company at Richard City, Tenn., yesterday afternoon, being caught in the belting in the machinery department. Both were men with families.

Golf Links Hold Another President In Their Clutches

WASHINGTON, June 12.—President Wilson evidently expects to spend part of the summer in the open, for it was learned today he is a member of the Washington country club, the quarters of which are just across the Potomac river in Virginia. The president has played several games of golf over the club course, and is said to have an especial liking for the links.

BOMB EXPLOSION KILLS SEVERAL IN PORTUGAL

LISBON, Portugal, June 12.—Several persons were killed and a large number wounded today by the explosion of a dynamite bomb thrown from a window at a procession passing along the streets.

ROOSEVELT TO VISIT SOUTH AMERICA NEXT

Former President Will Lecture in Buenos Aires on Progress of United States

(By Associated Press.)

BUENOS AYRES, June 12.—It was announced here today that Theodore Roosevelt is coming to Argentina to lecture on the progress of the United States.

"Yes," Says Colonel's Aide, "He'll Leave This Fall"

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 12.—Colonel Roosevelt's private secretary today confirmed the report that the colonel contemplates a trip to Argentina, but added that the details had not been settled. Present plans call for his departure this fall.

NEWLY NAMED OFFICERS OF ODD FELLOWS TO MEET

MACON, Ga., June 12.—The newly elected grand lodge officers of the Odd Fellows of Georgia will meet in Macon on the morning of June 21, to hold a "cabinet meeting." The meeting will be held for the purpose of making plans for the year's work by assigning each of the grand lodge officers his share. Grand Master T. M. Hoynes, of Savannah issued the called meeting.

The session will be the first held since the officers were elected at the Savannah meeting.

"Schools Is Schools"

MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 12.—Presidents of state normal schools must never again use the word "college" or "colleges" in referring to their institutions. The state normal school board, before it adjourned yesterday, voted unanimously against allowing certain schools to continue to use "college" when it should be "school."

I CAN EAT ANYTHING.

I Can Not Praise Peruna Enough. It Has Done so Much for Me.

Functional diseases of the stomach are more common than any other ailment. The majority of people do not have perfect digestion. Perhaps half of the people have some noticeable distress or derangement of the stomach. Thousands of people are invalids because of weak stomachs.

Mrs. Sophie Bauer, 521 First Ave., N. Faribault, Minn.

We are continually hearing of the benefit that Peruna is in derangements of the stomach. Gradually the stomach gets worse and worse until the victim finds himself or herself incapable of taking ordinary food. Mrs. Bauer's was such a case. We extract from one of her letters a brief statement of what she says about it:

"I cannot praise your wonderful medicine, Peruna, enough. It has done much for me during the past ten years, and I keep it in the house continually. I was in such a condition that I could eat nothing but bread and milk, and even that was too heavy for me at times. Now I can eat anything.

"I will recommend Peruna to all my friends."

YOU ARE LOOKING OLDER THAN WHEN I SAW YOU LAST

Have You Ever Had This Said of You Because of Grey Hairs

It is most embarassing to have a friend remark that you are "looking older".

Grey hairs are not becoming, people may tell you so, but they are saying to themselves: "What a pity she is not old. And she used to have such beautiful hair."

There is one quick, absolutely sure, easy way of getting rid of grey or faded hair—simply use Hay's Hair Health.

Benefit by the experience of thousands of others, who are using Hay's Hair Health. It brings back the first glossy, brilliant color of your hair—restores the grey hairs to their natural color immediately, and keeps the scalp free from dandruff.

People voluntarily recommend Hay's Hair Health. It is not unusual for them to say: "I want to tell others about it. It's perfectly splendid." Try it yourself, today. You'll be surprised how quickly the grey hairs disappear; how beautifully dark and glossy your hair will remain after using it. Druggists sell more Hay's Hair Health than all others combined because their customers prefer it and they know that it can be guaranteed satisfactory.

Free: Sign this adv: and take it to the following druggists, and get a 50c size bottle of Hay's Hair Health and a 25c cake of Harfina Soap free, for 50c; or a $1.00 size bottle of Hay's Hair Health and two 25c cakes of Harfina Soap free, for $1.00.

JACOBS' PHARMACY.

THE ATLANTA JOURNAL'S $7,000 BOOKLOVERS' CAMPAIGN.

The Plan and How You Can Enter

The Journal is publishing seventy-five pictures, each representing the title of one book.

Seven thousand dollars' worth of prizes will be given to those who can select the most correct titles.

The Answer Book gives you the right to ten answers, using only one of each picture. With the Answer Book The Journal will give you the first thirty-five prize pictures free.

The Answer Book will cost you at the office, 50c by mail. The Catalogue sells for 25c at the office, 27c by mail. Use the coupons in order as. Extra pictures cost 2c each.

Subscribe for The Journal and get all the campaign stories and balance of prize pictures.

Enter now, and get in line for your share of the $7,000.

The campaign is open to all residents of Georgia, Alabama, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee.

SEVEN MORE PRIZE PICTURES

There will be seven more prize pictures after today and it is just the right time for all Journal readers who have put off entering until now.

The last prize picture will be published on the 19th, but The Journal will give you at least three weeks' time after that to get your answers in shape, with one whole week after that to mail them in. That gives you five full weeks, if you decide that much time to select the correct titles. That will be more than enough time for any bright reader to get up a prize winning list of answers.

Now is the time for every reader to take advantage of this wonderful prize winning plan while they still have plenty of time.

Make up your mind to get in the game now and claim your share of that $7,000.

You will enjoy the plan and can win a prize if you exercise all your rights to extra answers.

BOOKLOVERS' QUERIES

M. B. B., City: Picture No. 58 is a boy.

A. G. R., Madison, Ga.: You can use the same title as an answer to more than one picture. Where more than one author has written a story with the same title, other authors' names may be used.

Mrs. W., Manchester, Ga.: There is water in No. 33. Lines on wall in No. 52 have no significance. No. rain in No. 96. It is part of the decorations in room behind the men in No. 20.

Jack, Macon, Ga.: No snow in No. 16. The man has a folded paper and the girl a handbag in picture No. 9. See answer to G. R. No one is running a bulletin on answers in any store here.

A., Griffin, Ga.: Use authors' names as given in catalogue; initials will do.

Mrs. H. C., Atlanta: Where there are two books of the same title and different author, use either one. In paragraph three of the inside of the cover of the catalogue you will find the answer to your other question.

C. J. G., Macon, Ga.: Where two members of a family win a prize, the higher prize will be paid.

Contestant, Royston, Ga.: 1. No. It will be necessary to use Answer Book gotten out by The Journal. 2. Yes.

W. A. N., Griffin, Ga.: Use authors' names as they appear in our official catalogue. You can use the same answers to more than one picture.

W. S., Atlanta: No answers have been published to any pictures, nor will be until the campaign is closed.

The highest-priced instrument, and the best low-priced instrument, are both Columbias—

The Columbia "Eclipse" $25

A full size and complete Columbia with the new tone-control shutters, and the new Columbia reproducer. Plays any disc record.

Try to forget the smallness of the price long enough to prove the quality of this Columbia "Eclipse."

The Columbia "Grand" Grafonola—$500

The last word in instruments of music. No winding—it runs by electric motor. Stops automatically at the end of each record. A tone-chamber built like the body of a 'cello. Equipped with a speed indicator operating like an automobile speedometer. It plays all disc records interchangeably.

And there are other Columbias all the way between—at $35, $50, $60, $100, $150 and $200.

GOMEZ' FOLLOWERS RENEW ACTIVITY

(By Associated Press.)

EL PASO, Tex., June 12.—There are marked evidences of renewed activity among the followers of Emilio Vasquez Gomez, whose revolutionary propaganda is not connected with the constitutionalist movement. Federal mutineers under Maximo Castillo, now in the field below Juarez, have come out squarely for the Vasquez Gomez claims to the presidency, and an organization committee is meeting regularly at El Paso.

The leader himself is expected here soon. In the meantime his political adherents are active in reorganizing the movement which was launched as a revolutionary measure just after the Madero revolution. Gomez has not been in the field since he proclaimed himself president and was abandoned by General Ines Salazar, who joined the federals. His followers here assert that Attorney Emilio Vasquez Gomez has political forces with al brother, Dr. Francisco Vasquez Gomez, who recently escaped from Mexico. While the lawyer has a popular following on account of his plan for land distribution, the physician is said to retain much political power at the national capital. On account of their almost pure Indian blood, the Vasquez Gomez brothers are accepted by a large element in certain states.

WILSON, ROOSEVELT AND TAFT INVITED

(By Associated Press.)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 12.—President Wilson, former Presidents Taft and Roosevelt and the governor of each state where equal suffrage prevails have been invited by telegraph to be present at a women's jubilee to be held here Friday night to celebrate passage of the bill yesterday granting limited suffrage to the women of Illinois.

The women are going ahead with their plans for further enfranchisement, it was announced today. A constitutional convention is one of these and a number of schools of instruction is anticipated. The constitutional convention, if expected, would enfranchise women so that they might vote on every proposition now decided by the ballots of the men. The schools of instruction will hold courses in citizenship as well as practical lessons in voting by hand-marked ballots and by machine.

By the bill adopted yesterday women may vote in all offices which are not mentioned in the constitution of Illinois. The bill gives as large a degree of suffrage to women in Illinois as the constitution permits the legislature to grant. Women cannot obtain complete suffrage in this state without a constitutional amendment or a constitutional convention.

HEIR OF HARRIMAN'S MILLIONS CARES MORE FOR SPORT THAN DOLLARS

Averell Harriman on left, son of the late railway king, discussing Yale chances with Coach Gold, of England, who is teaching Yale crews the English stroke; and G. S. Maslagan, former coxswain of the Oxford and Leander eights, who seem to be illustrating an interesting point.

BOLT OF LIGHTNING LETS LAD OF FOUR WALK

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 12.—That Thomas William Brown, Jr., is walking this week for the first time in his life although he is over four years old, is credited by his parents to a bolt of lightning which struck near their home at Jamaica, Long Island, last Saturday. The little boy had always had a pair of very normal legs but no amount of coaxing would induce him to use them. During Saturday's storm he sat by the door of his father's grocery store when lightning struck nearby and a deafening crash of thunder came. Mrs. Brown herself was hysterical with fright and then with joy when she saw her little boy running around the store for the first time.

ONE FOREIGNER WHO WANTS TO BE DEPORTED

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 12.—Louis Grandjean, who declares that he will win a $10,000 wager if he arrives in Paris by July 15, is hoping to get the immigration authorities to deport him. Ten years ago he says he left Paris to win the $10,000 stake put up at the Jockey club there that before July 15, 1912, he could not visit every country in the world, always working his way, never being subsidized or accepting charity.

Penniless and hungry, yesterday he appealed to the police for his arrest on a charge of vagrancy, but when he found that he might be sentenced to the workhouse for six months he saw it would interfere with his getting to Paris on time, so he pleaded not guilty and was released. He took the advice of the police and will seek to be deported.

Grandjean passed through New York in 1908 and called upon Mayor McClellan at the time. Since then, he says, he has been all through this country, Canada, Japan, Australia, the Philippines, Panama and South America.

DYNAMITE IS USED TO BRING BODY TO SURFACE

THOMASVILLE, Ga., June 12.—The body of Edward McInnes, who was drowned Sunday afternoon in the Ochlocknee river, was brought up from its watery bed, after the use of dynamite. It was lodged in a deep hole and all efforts to find it before had been in vain. It was sent last night to Suwanee, forty miles above Atlanta, for interment. Several relatives of the young man who came here after the drowning accompanied it.

The body of young Sarratt rose to the surface yesterday, just forty-eight hours after he was drowned. It was buried at the family burying ground in the country.

M'ADOO'S OFFER EXPECTED TO RELIEVE 'TIGHT MONEY'

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 12.—Secretary McAdoo's overnight offer to issue emergency currency completely surprised the financial district. None of the bankers would express an opinion on the subject, but it was clear that secretary's announcement was interpreted as an act to reassure legitimate interests.

Local bankers believe that the offer will have the effect of releasing large amounts of time money in which a severe stringency was threatening. Stock exchange houses today reported a better investment demand than at any time since the recent depression.

PEACHTREE ROAD TO BE REPAIRED AT ONCE

County Commission Votes to Repair Pavement Between Fifteenth and Buckhead

The Fulton county commission Thursday voted unanimously to begin work on the repairing of Peachtree road, between Fifteenth street and Buckhead and agreed definitely to pave the road between the city limits and the Buckhead next year.

As a result of a resolution authorizing the work presented to the board by Chairman Shelby Smith, twenty-five men and a steam roller will be put on Peachtree road at once and the whole pavement between Fifteenth street and Buckhead will be scarified and repaired within the next few weeks. The action of the commissioners authorized the county's construction department to put the road in passable shape.

The repairing of Peachtree road came about through the commissioners' recognition of the fact that the road was one of the county's main arteries and the heavy travel over it had put the strip between the city line and Buckhead in impassable shape.

Prominent Atlantians living in the Peachtree road section have been before the board and the public works committee numerous times to urge that something be done at once to patch the strip if the county could not undertake the paving this year.

The Smith resolution provides for a smooth mixed pavement to be put down between the city line and Buckhead in 1914. This work will be included in next year's schedule.

"Hitchie-Coo" Is Latest Trot Seen In Ball Rooms Now

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 12.—The "Hitchie-coo," a combination of the "one step" and "tango," with a graceful kick as the final feature of each set, was introduced as the latest dance creation at the annual convention of the International Dancing Masters' association in session here.

F. W. Scott, of Michigan, the oldest member in attendance, declared that "trots" that necessitate the clinch hug should be prohibited by legislation. There's nothing bad about the new dances, if they are danced correctly, but they seldom are."

CHIEF BEAVERS UNABLE TO LOCATE GENTRY

He Wires Chief Lanford That Young Stenographer Can't Be Found

All efforts on the part of Detective Chief Lanford to locate George M. Gentry, the stenographer who wrote the famous dictograph records, have failed.

Following the publication Wednesday of an affidavit from Gentry made in Washington, D. C., in which the young stenographer charged that the dictograp records were padded after he had written them, Chief Lanford wired to Police Chief James L. Beavers, who is attending the police chiefs' convention in that city, to locate Gentry.

Thursday afternoon, Chief Lanford received the following telegram from Chief Beavers:

"Washington, D. C.,
"June 12, 1913.

"N. A. Lanford,
"Chief Detectives,
"Atlanta, Ga.

"Have been unable to locate Gentry.

"JAMES L. BEAVERS."

Chief Lanford takes for granted that Chief Beavers enlisted the aid of the Washington police and detectives in his search for Gentry and their failure to find him indicates that he is not now in Washington.

Members of Gentry's family state that they have no idea where he is, and E. O. Miles, the private detective, who brought back the Washington affidavit, refuses to divulge the young man's address.

Japs Learning English Language Through the Works of Edgar A. Poe

Dr. C. Alphonso Smith, Ph. D., LL. D., professor of the Edgar Allen Poe chair of English at the University of Virginia, who came to Atlanta to deliver the Founders' day oration to the Tech students, is authority for the statement that Poe's writings are text books of the Japanese.

"Just before I came to Atlanta," said Dr. Smith in conversation with a Journal reporter at the Piedmont hotel Wednesday afternoon, "I was talking with an eminent Japanese educator and asked him if any of Poe's writings had ever been translated into their language. Imagine my surprise when he told me that the Japs were learning our language from the 'Raven' and other poems and writings that have made Poe's name immortal.

"As a young man, Poe was a student of the University of Virginia and through the fact that he was the most notable student that ever attended the institution, the chair of English that I occupy was named for him. His popularity, instead of being on the wane, is steadily increasing from day to day and year to year."

Dr. Smith, who is a brother of the president of Washington and Lee university, is one of the foremost educators in the country today.

These people who were dragging out a wretched existence of suffering and unfitness for business or pleasure, are today enjoying vigorous health, happy and prosperous. Get this treatment today from Edmondson Drug company, 11 North Broad street and 106 North Pryor stret, or Coursey & Munn, 29 Marietta street. Mr. J. H. Shelnutt at Coursey & Munn's will give you all information of this wonderful remedy. If this medicine does not cure you it will not cost you anything. So why not get well and enjoy life?

MR. JOE EWING,

With the Associated Press, Atlanta, Ga., says: "I suffered tortures for fifteen years with dyspepsia. Instead of anticipating my meals with pleasure, they were a source of dread. Knowing that intense suffering would following taking food, and the distress of absorbing toxins form undigested food, I tried one physician after another. I was treated by specialists in New York City, with only temporary relief, and now that I have regained my health and can eat anything I want with the greatest relish and satisfaction, and my work is a pleasure, I look upon the years of suffering which I went through as wasted. I cannot say too much in praise of the remedy that cured me and will certainly cure any one suffering from this terrible disease. I recommend every one to take Nuxcara, the only certain cure known."—(Advt.)

COURT'S ORDER MAY RESULT IN MEETING OF NEGRO AND FRANK

10 o'clock Friday morning before Judge Roan in chambers. It is said to be certain that Luther Z. Rosser, leading counsel for Frank, will be present, if no positive announcement has emanated from him to this effect.

SOLICITOR CALLS WITNESSES.

The followed were subpenaed by Solicitor Dorsey, Thursday morning, to appear before Judge Roan in chambers at 10 o'clock Friday morning at the rule nisi hearing.

John W. Moore, an attorney of Atlanta.

William P. Flythe, a reporter for the Georgian.

Solicitor Dorsey declined flatly to state why these citizens were summoned to court by him.

"If it becomes necessary to question them, I will question them," said he. "Otherwise I have no intention of making public what I want to have their sworn testimony upon."

The solicitor declared that he is determined to stand solidly upon the position already taken by himself—that he, and the negro Conley and Conley's lawyer, all want Conley to remain in custody at police headquarters, and not at the Tower, and that that is sufficient.

NO LIBERTY FOR NEGRO.

The solicitor general has announced in open court that if the writ of habeas is granted that Conley will be released technically but that he will be immediately rearrested and held at police headquarters on "suspicion."

It is said that counsel for the defense of Frank will contend that if anyone is going to hold the negro Conley he should be incarcerated according to the strict letter of the law in the Fulton county Tower, held there as a material witness on an order of a judge of the superior court.

In the Phagan case there is said to have been much legal maneuvering "under the surface" practically from the first, and if the defense of Frank answers the rule nisi Friday a lively clash of attorneys is almost certain, and it is not improbable that the underground maneuvers will be brought to the surface.

The legal maneuvering in the case shows this situation:

Judge Roan doubts the legality of holding Conley at police headquarters, it being argued that the jail is the only place where the negro can be confined legally.

Solicitor Dorsey does not want the negro to be taken from police headquarters to the tower.

Neither does Conley's attorney, W. M. Smith, desire a transfer. However, the legality of the negro's present incarceration is the question. Solicitor Dorsey has asked the order revoking the former order.

EFFECT OF ORDER.

Had this been granted the court could not be involved in the case and the city detectives could have held Conley at police headquarters unless a writ of habeas corpus was taken out for or by him.

As the negro wants to stay at police headquarters, and his attorney wants him to stay there, there would naturally be no habeas corpus taken for him, and Conley would have remained a prisoner at police headquarters until Leo M. Frank's trial.

There is little probability it now appears of the negro's being indicted as an accessory after the fact for the reason that then he would have a right to demand bond.

Judge Roan's decision to issue the rule nisi calling on the police authorities to contest the solicitor's petition to take the negro out of the state's hands, precipitates an unusual and interesting situation.

The issue can be contested properly by Frank's attorneys or by any citizen in the county and the right to keep the negro in police station and away from the jail may cause a lively hearing next Friday.

Judge Roan's first order in the case was issued on a petition of the solicitor that Conley be held as a material witness. Conley was then removed to the tower. On an order granted two days later Conley was carried back to police headquarters. If both of these orders are revoked Conley will be technically at liberty, but as a matter of fact he will be immediately arrested by the city detectives and held on a charge of "suspicion." Legally he will then not figure in the Phagan case until carried to the court house to testify against Frank.

SOLICITOR'S STATEMENT.

Solicitor Dorsey explained to the court that he was satisfied with the order requiring Conley to be held as a material witness, because he regards Conley as a material witness; but that he did not want Conley transferred to the tower for two reasons. First, that Conley had told him, the solicitor, with what truth the solicitor did not know, that he had been intimidated and threatened in the jail; and second, that Conley's own attorney was there in court with Conley to waive any liability to consent that he remain in the custody of the police. In other words, the solicitor explained, there was no danger that an attempt would be made to get Conley released from the police, and if an attempt were made the police could be ready to hold him on a warrant, and further he had the particular reason stated for not wanting to transfer Conley to the jail to other reported intimidation.

Attorney William M. Smith, Conley's lawyer, signed a consent to the judge's order in somewhat the following language:

That he, the lawyer, wanted his client to remain in confinement at police station, and is willing on Conley's behalf that Conley shall be held by the police in their custody until Leo M. Frank is tried or until Conley himself is indicted; that he did not want Conley confined in the Fulton county tower because of "reported efforts on the part of certain visitors to the jail to torture and intimidate said Conley, and because he wished to safeguard his client against "perjured admissions that Conley did not make."

DORSEY SATISFIED.

Mr. Dorsey stated in court that he was entirely satisfied with the order remanding Conley to custody as a material witness, and that he brought his petition in court because Judge Roan had notified him that of his own motion he intended to transfer Conley to the county jail.

Mr. Dorsey stated further in court that Conley could not be indicted now under the law as an accessory after the fact because no fact has been proved in the negro's own admissions, said the solicitor, he is liable to indictment at the proper time later.

Attorney Smith stated to the court that no effort would be made to secure Conley's release from the city police, and he presented written authority from the negro for making that statement.

Mr. Dorsey stated afterward that he will be in court when the rule nisi is called for hearing, not to show cause himself but to answer any one who attempts to show cause why the negro should be released entirely by the law.

JUDGE'S ORDER.

Judge Roan's rule on Solicitor Dorsey's petition asking the withdrawal of the court's order holding James Conley as a material witness is:

"Read and considered: It is ordered that the petition and order be filed and duly served upon the claimed suspects in connection with the Phagan murder now confined in the common jail, towit: Leo M. Frank, Newt Lee, and others, either personally or by serving their attorneys. They, with any other citizens of Fulton county, who may receive this notice by publication or otherwise, may show cause before me, Friday, the 13th day of June, at 10 o'clock, in chambers in the Tower building, Atlanta, Ga., why the prayers of the petitioner should not be granted. This notice is to be served by the sheriff or his deputy by leaving a copy of the petition and order.

establishment of a transcontinental road should the stock in question be acquired. It was pointed out that even were this desirable, the physical means still would be lacking. Pennsylvania's farthest western connection is many hundreds of miles away from the Southern Pacific's nearest eastern point.

Means Pennsylvania Road Relinquishes Hold on B. & O.

(By Associated Press.)

PHILADELPHIA, June 12.—Pennsylvania railroad officials confirmed the statement that an arrangement had been entered into for the exchange of the company's holdings of Baltimore and Ohio railroad stock for $38,000,000 worth of the Southern Pacific stock by the Union Pacific. It was said the exchange, if approved by the court, would be on the basis of the relative market value of Baltimore and Ohio and Southern Pacific stock.

President Rea, of the Pennsylvania railroad, declined to make any statement. It was said the Pennsylvania has no interest whatever in the management of the Southern Pacific, and that the arrangement is designed only to prevent the throwing upon the market of such an immense block of Southern Pacific stock.

The Baltimore and Ohio stock involved in the transaction was acquired by the Pennsylvania years ago at figures much higher than the present market quotations.

In financial circles the deal is looked upon as a relinquishment by the Pennsylvania of all interest in the Baltimore and Ohio company.

According to the last annual report of the Pennsylvania Railroad company it held 142,736 shares of preferred stock of the Baltimore and Ohio with a par value of $14,273,600 and 57,239 shares of common stock with a par value of $5,725,000. Including the Pennsylvania company, the Pennsylvania interests own about $43,000,000 of Baltimore and Ohio stock.

the university in the front rank of educational institutions in the south.

Professor Holmes resigned the chair of Latin at Mercer several years ago to accept the presidential chair of the Gordon Military Institute, at Barnesville, Ga. Since that time he has held the position continuously, with distinction, and has kept the standard of the school up to that of any other in the state of Georgia.

While a professor at Mercer, he was president of the athletic council, and it was through his untiring efforts that the institution forged to the front in baseball and finally after many years of inactivity in intercollegiate football once more became a potent factor on the gridiron. He was also a member of the board of directors of the S. I. A. A. His ability as an instructor of Latin was never questioned.

When approached on the subject by a Journal reporter following the Tech graduating exercises Wednesday afternoon, Prof. Holmes declared that he had not been approached in any manner in reference to the presidency of Mercer, but admitted that he had heard the rumor just as others had. In no way is he seeking the place, nor is he in any way responsible for the report. He appeared surprised when told that it had gained such headway, and that his name had been prominently mentioned in that connection by the Central City.

At the time that he was talking to The Journal representative, several members of the Tech faculty came up and one remarked: "We are hearing some mighty good things about you." The conversation at that time, however, immediately changed to other channels.

COMMITTEE ON BONDS WILL MEET THURSDAY

Council Members and Citizens to Consider City's Financial Situation

The special committee appointed under a resolution of council to investigate the subject of a bond issue and report back to council will hold its first meeting Thursday afternoon in the city hall.

The committee is composed of ten members of council, representing each of the ten wards in the city, and five citizens from the city at large.

The council members are as follows:

First ward, Alderman Harvell; Second ward, Councilman Lynch; Third ward, Councilman Hall; Fourth ward, Councilman Thomson; Fifth ward, Alderman Maddox; Sixth ward, Alderman Nutting; Seventh ward, Councilman Colcord; Eighth ward, Councilman Humphrey; Ninth ward, Alderman Candler; Tenth ward, Alderman Rawsdale.

The chairman of the committee is Councilman Thomson, who is heartily in favor of bonds, believing the city has reached a point in its growth where it either must issue bonds or increase its current revenue, in order to provide the many special improvements that are necessary and pressing.

The committee will probably organize by appointing two subcommittees. One of these will ascertain the attitude of the newspaper editors toward a bond issue, and sound out the various other organized influences whose support will be necessary to carry bonds at a popular election. The other will make a thorough canvass of all city departments as well as the special projects now pending, in order to determine approximately what amount of bonds are needed and how the money should be spent.

Admittedly an important factor in the bond situation, or in any other move which may be taken toward raising more money for the city, is Mayor Woodward.

So far as bonds are concerned, the mayor announced his position in an interview in The Journal last Sunday, when he said that he would support bonds provided the people would elect a first class council of business men to expend the money."

ANOTHER EXPERT PRAISES SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLANT

A. F. Backlin, Engineer of Big Steel Company, Inspects New Plants

A. F. Backlin, assistant to the chief engineer of the American Steel and Wire company, of Worcester, Mass., Thursday morning inspected the city of Atlanta's new system of sewage purification and disposal, and pronounced the same highly successful so far as he could determine from a brief observation.

Mr. Backlin, accompanied by an official from the Central City department, went to the Proctor creek plant, which is completed and in full operation, and Peachtree creek and Entrenchment creek plants, which are nearing completion.

Mr. Backlin's company has a steel and wire plant at Birmingham and contemplates the installation of a sewage disposal system in connection therewith.

Mr. Backlin is inspecting all the up-to-date sewage disposal plants in the country before recommending a system to his company. He states that Atlanta's system is not only ahead of anything he has seen, but in his opinion

ONLY ONE GETS LENIENCY OUT OF FIFTY WHO ASK

Gov. Brown Turns Down Many Applications for Pardon and Parole

Governor Brown, assisted by Major A. H. Ulm, his executive secretary and ex-officio pardon attorney, devoted the greater portion of Thursday morning to applications from convicts for executive clemency. Out of about fifty applications the governor acted favorably upon just one—that of Earl Overby, a twenty-year-old youth who has served one year of a five-year term in the Bibb county chaingang for simple larceny. A parole was granted Overby.

Seven of the declined applications were from convicts who are serving terms for taking human life, and the remaining forty-two ranged through the category of lesser offenses.

The seven mentioned above are as follows:

M. L. Lowery, convicted of murder at the spring term, 1887, of the Glynn county superior court and given a life sentence. A parole was recommended by the prison commission, but no trial record accompanied the application. Lowery claims to be a Croatan Indian and a Confederate veteran. He protests that he had been and is now considered as a negro by the authorities.

Stanley Hendricks, convicted of involuntary manslaughter at the August, 1912, term of the Cherokee county superior court and sentenced to two years. In this case there was no recommendation from the prison commission.

Jim Dunwoody, convicted of murder at the April, 1903, term of the Houston county superior court and sentenced to life imprisonment. The prison commission recommended a parole.

W. L. Troup, convicted of manslaughter at the spring, 1911, term of Laurens county superior court and sentenced to fourteen years. The prison commission recommends da parole. No trial record accompanied the application.

Tom Hamilton, convicted of murder at the November, 1909, term of the Wilkes county superior court and sentenced to life imprisonment. The prison commission recommended a pardon.

Arlstride Franconi, convicted of manslaughter at the spring, 1912, term of the Pickens county superior court and sentenced to ten years.

Hard Moss, convicted of murder at the Spring, 1906, term of the Pulaski county superior court and sentenced to life imprisonment. The prison commission declined to recommend clemency.

Among the other applications declined by the governor was one for a parole filed by Davis Coker, convicted of highway robbery at the spring, 1912, term of the Fulton county superior court and sentenced to ten years. The prison commission recommended a parole.

Ion the most satisfactory.

TWO ARE MENTIONED FOR VACANCY ON PARK BOARD

Oscar Weinmester and A. N. Thom Being Considered by Second Ward Delegation

Frank Wilby has resigned as a member of the city park board from the second ward and his successor probably will be elected by council next Monday.

The second ward councilmanic delegation has not yet decided on a choice, although two names are understood to be under consideration. One is Oscar Weinmester, a well known real estate man and enthusiastic advocate of parks. The other is A. N. Thom, a capitalist of the second ward who is well known and influential.

Mr. Wilby left the board because being out of the city a good deal of the time made it impossible for him to give the attention to park matters which he thinks they deserve.

MR. HARRY B. LAYTON DIES AT SANITARIUM

Secretary of Tifton Chamber of Commerce Dies in This City

Mr. Harry B. Layton, aged forty-three years, died at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday evening at a local sanitarium, where he had been under treatment for some time.

Surviving him are his mother, Mrs. Lewis Layton, and one brother, H. T. Layton. He was secretary of the chamber of commerce of Tifton, Ga. The body was removed to H. M. Patterson's chapel, and at 2:45 o'clock Thursday afternoon was sent to Morgantown, W. Va., for funeral and interment.

Mr. Layton was one of the most prominent residents of Tifton and was well known throughout south Georgia, where he had lived for the last five or six years. Resolutions of sympathy were *adopted by the Tifton chamber of com*merce following his death.

For many years Mr. Layton was in newspaper work in New York and several other eastern cities. He was Tifton correspondent for The Journal. His mother and brother live in Pittsburg, Pennsylvania.

GRANITE CLUB MEMBERS WILL BE ENTERTAINED

Thomas Whipple Connally will entertain the Granite club, a social, literary and scientific organization, at the University club Thursday night. After supper Dr. Montague L. Boyd will read a paper on "Sex Hygiene."

The members of the club are Wightman Bowden, Dr. M. L. Boyd, Thomas W. Connally, H. F. Hentz, Harold Hirsch, I. S. Hopkins, Jr., W. C. Jones, B. K. Rambo, Dr. S. R. Roberts, C. B. Shelton, A. B. Simms, G. R. Solomon, A. D. Thomson, W. D. Thomson, Philip Weltner, E. L. Worsham.

MAYOR DELAYS ACTION ON THE JUNE BUDGET

Council Members Say He Did It Deliberately, to Hold Up Crematory Purchase

Owing to Mayor Woodward's failure to take action on the June budget, council could do nothing when it met in special session Wednesday afternoon—except adjourn.

Council passed the budget last Thursday, and adjourned until the following Wednesday to let the mayor pass on it. Under the usual rule the mayor would have had four days in which to act. But he took the position that this applied only to a regular meeting, and the city attorney upheld his position.

Council members complained bitterly against the mayor for delaying the budget. They said he had plenty of time to examine it and act, one way or the other, and they construed his failure to act as a deliberate intent to block the crematory as long as he can on technicalities.

This the mayor denied. He said the city clerk did not bring him the budget until Wednesday morning, which gave him no time to examine it.

City Clerk Taylor said he was determined not to let the mayor make him the goat. He said the mayor told him he was in no hurry for the budget, and then, when he delivered it, the mayor asked him why he kept it so long.

Council will meet in regular session next Monday, and by that time the mayor probably will have acted on the budget.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jun 12.—"Military and myself returned from Bluffton this morning. Everything quiet," wired Sheriff White, of Beaufort county, to Governor Blease today. The threatened race riot is thus averted.

THIRTY CENTS ALLOWED FOR PRISONER'S MEALS

County Board to Pay Sheriff Less This Year for Feeding Jail Inmates

Sheriff C. Wheeler Mangum will be paid thirty cents per day per head person for feeding the prisoners in the Fulton county jail for the next year, according to a contract made between him and the county commission Thursday.

For the past five months the feeding of the prisoners has been done under the direct supervision of the county board as authorized by the salary act, but the old arrangement of the sheriff feeding the inmates is to be resumed as a result of the supreme court decision declaring the act illegal.

Commissioner Anderson said that the county fed the prisoners for twelve and one-half cents a day while the salary act was in force. Sheriff Mangum told the board he could not do it for that amount when his other expenses at the jail were considered.

After considerable argument, in which it was agreed to allow the sheriff forty-five cents, the old price, less the county's cost of feeding for the first five months of this year, the straight price of thirty cents was fixed for the future.

A Lucky Lace Sale

Hundreds and Hundreds of Yards of Valenciennes, Linen and Venise Laces Wonderfully Priced

Tomorrow morning, at nine o'clock, one of those lace sales for which Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co. is renowned!

There are quantities of laces, great, huge quantities involved—which you may better understand when you know that the sale is made up of all our broken sets, patterns that we will discontinue, patterns that the manufacturers have dropped—and to the knowing, this also tells that the laces are all fine and desirable—they are anything but Sale laces, that often suffer in quality for the sake of appearance.

Laces from our own good, carefully selected stocks, such as you would pick out for the trimmings of your dresses, waist and underwear, when prices represented the fair worth of them.

Economy, then, lies on the side of choosing now all the laces that you will need during the whole summer—and varieties are great enough to make this easy.

Regularly 7 1-2c to 10c a yd. Now 59c a Dozen wide. Fine patterns that will not lose their beauty in washing.

Round thread Valenciennes laces to be sold only by the dozen yards. Edges and insertions to match in white and cream, they are three-quarters, to one and one-half inches

ATLANTA HOTEL MEN OFF FOR MIDSUMMER MEETING

Large Delegation Leaves Over Central Railroad for Tybee Thursday Night

Final arrangements have been made for the Atlanta members of the Georgia Hotel Men's association to attend the first midsummer convention at Tybee island, Friday and Saturday of this week. The delegates, headed by J. Lee Barnes, president of the Atlanta Hotel Men's association, will leave the city Thursday evening at 9:35 o'clock in a private car over the Central of Georgia railway for Savannah.

At Macon they will be joined by a large delegation from that city and other members will be picked up at other towns en route. Fred Houser, of Atlanta, secretary of the association, who is attending the Ad Men's convention in Baltimore, Md., will join the visitors, going directly to Savannah from the Maryland city.

A significant feature of the meeting is the fact that representatives of the different traveling men's organizations in the state have been asked to attend the convention for the purpose of discussing legislation looking toward the creation of a state hotel inspector. This and other matters of importance will come before the body.

The traveling organizations invited to meet with the hotel men are the United Commercial Travelers' association, the Travelers' Protective association, the Georgia raveling association and the Southern raveling association. Representatives from all four will be in attendance and the question given serious consideration.

The creation of just such an office has been under serious consideration for some time by the hotel men and traveling organizations who believe that it will be of mutual benefit to both.

SCANDAL BREWING IN THE ENGLISH CABINET

Alleged That Cabinet Ministers Speculate in Stock of Oil Companies With Contracts

LONDON, June 12.—Scandals connecting members of the British government with speculation in oil, may, it is expected, bring about a fresh parliamentary history in England.

The Times recently warned the government that rumors were rife as to cabinet ministers speculating in the shares of oil companies which contracted for the British navy.

The Globe today hints that books of Charles E. Fenner, a stock broker, who recently went into bankruptcy, show that Lord Murray, of Elibank, invested a considerable amount of the funds of the liberal party in oil shares, particularly those of a Mexican company, which had obtained large government contracts.

STATE RAISES $16,483 FROM COTTON SALE

The sum of $16,483 has been derived by the state prison commission from the sale of the cotton raised last year at the state convict farm, near Milledgeville.

There were 333 bales which brought an average of 11 1-2 cents. The proceeds were Thursday morning turned into the state treasury. Year before last, which was a good crop year, something over $29,000 was obtained for the cotton grown by the convicts.

The prison farm has 600 acres in cotton at the present time, and it is believed by Chairman R. E. Davidson that the favorable weather of the past two weeks will overcome the handicap encountered early in the season and that a fair crop will be made.

WARM WEATHER WILL SOON BE HERE AGAIN

Atlanta's midsummer winter weather is about to make its exit, according to Official Forecaster Von Herrmann. Early Thursday morning the mercury went as low as 47 degrees Fahrenheit, but at 7 o'clock p. m. had climbed to the comfortable position of 74, once more in speaking distance of the place it rightly belongs at this season of the year.

Warmer weather is promised for Friday and the cold snap will gradually disappear within the new few days.

Old Grace Church Gutted By Fire

Historic Building on Corner of Boulevard and Houston Is Practically Destroyed Thursday Morning

The old Grace Methodist Episcopal church on the corner of North Boulevard and Houston streets was gutted by flames which broke out on the roof about 9 o'clock Thursday morning and are believed to have been caused by a defective flue.

The fire was not discovered until it had mad considerable headway. Engines were called and after an hour's hard work the firemen had succeeded in controlling the flames and preventing them from spreading to neighboring buildings, as they threatened to do for a while.

The roof of the church was the most badly damaged portion. The blaze gutted the entire interior also, destroyed a laundry in the basement, and burned the steeple to a bare framework.

The church has been owned for the last seven years by George F. Glazener, of 81 Houston street, who used it for meetings of the Primitive Baptist church, in which he is a deacon. The laundry was rented to Clem Phillips, of the Phillips Shirt company.

Mr. Phillips stated that he estimated the damage to his laundry at about $1,000. At the time of the fire there were a number of girls and men at work in the basement, all of whom escaped without injury. The goods in the laundry were saved also, and Mr. Phillips says that all will be delivered to customers as usual.

The church building was built about thirty-two years ago, having been erected in 1882 by the Grace Methodist Episcopal congregation. About eight years later an addition was made and the interior was remodelled and finished. The Grace church people built a new edifice about seven years ago at the corner of North Boulevard and Highland avenue, a block from the old building. The latter was sold to Mr. Glazener.

Since then it has been put to various uses, the basement used as a laundry, and the main auditorium for preaching and various political meetings. It was regarded as one of the landmarks of the Fourth ward.

The fire did so much damage that it is extremely improbable that the building can be repaired.

WILSON TO VISIT CANAL WHEN CONGRESS QUITS

33c For 50c Drawers

Soft nainsook is the material. You will be impressed with the fine quality of the laces and embroideries. They were the best values we have known at their original price. Embroidery edges are very often set on pretty open pattern beadings.

48c For 75c to 95c Drawers

A variety that admits of fine choice. The nainsook is sheer and fine, the trimmings are dainty laces and embroideries—combined in more ways than can be told of here. Expect the prettiest of drawers you usually find at 75c to 95c.

12½c For 25c Corset Covers

Six dozen make up this lot to hurry out soon after opening time tomorrow. Six styles, some of all-over embroideries, others of Nainsook, lace and embroidery trimmed, with ribbon run beadings. All substantially neatly made.

50c For $1.00 to $1.50 Petticoats

Petticoats of pink, blue and tan chambray and striped ginghams—stripes of blue, brown and lavender on solid colors. The flounces are of plaited nets adding to their attractiveness for summer wear. No worry about their washing—the materials—some silk finished are fast colors.

The June Sale of Table Linens and Towels---a Saving in Every New Price

A Linen Sale that rings true at every point!

First, the linens are right; the kinds that good housekeepers glory in. They have been received into the Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose stocks for no other reason than the fact that they were the best linens at their REGULAR prices that we, with the markets of the world open to us, could find. They are linens that we are proud to sell in regular way at the prices at which they were marked. To sell such linens creates confidence; it builds a better Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co.; it insures that greatest of store assets, customer-satisfaction.

Now comes the June Sale, and with it the new and lowered prices. And the difference between the June Sale prices and the prices that were is as truly a saving as it could possibly be.

So, Madam Housekeeper, look to your linen chest. Now is the opportunity to replenish it with linens that you will joy in owning!

Reduce the Smoke Limit.

Under the present terms of the city smoke ordinance a stack is allowed to emit dense smoke twelve minutes each hour. That regulation was sufficient, perhaps, a year ago, when the task of smoke reduction was largely experimental, but today it is obviously inadequate. A number of plants have found it easy and profitable to limit their smoke periods to six minutes an hour. With efficient management, all of them can do so to their own as well as the community's benefit.

Basing its action upon ample records and upon the smoke inspector's recommendation, the Smoke Board has requested Council to amend the ordinance by establishing six minutes instead of twelve as the limit. In order that the new requirement may work no possible hardship, it is suggested that it not go into effect until 1914, but that every one to whom it applies make immediate efforts to comply with its terms. Such an interim would afford ample opportunity for any readjustments that might be necessary, and also for fruitful co-operation between the smoke inspector and the owners of plants.

Against so timely and reasonable a requirement there can be no valid objection. Council should, and doubtless will, amend the ordinance as requested. The original law, it must be remembered, was unusually liberal and mild, intended as it was for a city taking its first steps toward remedying the smoke evil. If experience is to be turned to profitable account and made the basis for further progress, this ordinance must be strengthened from time to time as circumstances justify. The fact is, as Inspector Poole says, that if all the stacks in Atlanta emitted black smoke twelve minutes an hour, the present limit, the air would be unbearable; and, "If a stack makes any progress at all in reducing smoke, it can easily come within a six-minute period."

There are local disturbances other than the weather.

This cold spell was a thing the almanacs were not prepared for.

No Money, No War.

Despite the belligerent attitude of Servia and Bulgaria, there is good reason to believe that another war in the Balkans will be averted. The larger Powers are exerting their utmost influence for peace, and particularly significant is the harmony with which Germany and Russia are counseling together toward that end.

Of chief importance, however, is the warning from France that, in the event of war, it will make no loans either to Bulgaria or Servia before or after hostilities. That announcement should serve effectually to check the Balkan States in any warlike action they may have contemplated; for the campaigns against Turkey have almost emptied their treasuries, and, without a prospect of future financial assistance, they would be without means either to fight or to meet their pressing domestic needs.

It is not surprising, therefore, to learn through dispatches that Servia has signified her purpose to avoid all provocations toward Turkey, and that Bulgaria likewise has expressed a readiness to do everything possible to preserve harmony.

The Mictograph has supplanted the old ears the walls used to have.

Helpless Turkey.

The assassination of the Turkish grand vizier in Constantinople yesterday was the third deed of the kind within recent months. The commander-in-chief of the army and another distinguished general had previously fallen victims to the spirit of dark sedition with which the Ottoman government is beset.

It is be true that the defeat of the Turks at the hands of the Balkan allies was due largely to the demoralized condition of the army and to popular distrust of the government, it is even more true that the results of the war have intensified both these evils. In fact, Turkey is today threatened with an internal upheaval that may call for intervention on the part of the responsible Powers.

The End of the "Twilight Zone."

The Supreme Court's decision in the Minnesota rate case is chiefly significant for the fact that it upholds the right of the States to prescribe reasonable intrastate rates on interstate railroads. The meaning and the importance of this ruling will become clearer if viewed in the light of the history of the particular issue on which it is based.

In May, 1907, the State Railroad Commission of Minnesota ordered a reduction, of from twenty to twenty-five per cent in certain intrastate freight rates of the railroads operating in that State. Shortly thereafter the Legislature of Minnesota enacted a bill providing for an additional reduction of more than seven per cent in the rates on grain, lumber, live stock and coal. The railroads concerned, among them being the Northern Pacific, the Great Northern and the Minneapolis and St. Louis, resisted those orders, and in appealing to the courts they advanced two major claims: First, that the action of the State involved an unconstitutional interference with interstate commerce, and, second, that the rates proposed were within themselves confiscatory. Judge Sanborn, of the United States circuit court of Minnesota, sustained the contention of the roads on all points, holding in regard to the interstate commerce issue that the action of the Minnesota authorities would modify the rates in North Dakota as well as in Minnesota, and was, therefore, an assumption of unwarranted power on the part of the State.

That decision is now reversed by the Supreme court, which affirms, in substance, that a State may fix railroad rates between points within its borders, even though they incidentally affect interstate commerce, provided, of course, that such rates are not confiscatory. To this extent the Supreme Court's ruling sustains and strengthens the power of State railroad commissions and defines more clearly than ever the right of the States to regulate the conduct of railway corporations. The opin'on read by Justice Hughes says in this connection:

> "There shall remain to the States exercise of the power appropriate to their territorial jurisdiction in making suitable provision for local needs. The State may provide local improvements, create and regulate local facilities and adopt protective measures of a reasonable character in the interest of health, safety, morals and the welfare of its people, although interstate commerce may incidentally or indirectly be involved."

The decision goes further and declares that "where matters falling within State powers, as above described, are also, by reason of their relation to interstate commerce, within the reach of the federal power, Congress must be the judge of the necessity of federal action; and until Congress acts, the States may act." This would seem to remove what has been known as "the twilight zone" in the regulation of railway rates. The fact that the federal government has not seen fit to take cognizance of certain traffic matters does not mean, as the railroads would contend, that such matters are to be left entirely unregulated. On this question the Court is emphatic when it declares:

> "Where the subject is peculiarly one of local concern and belongs to the class with which the State appropriately deals in making reasonable provision for local needs, it cannot be regarded as left to the unrestrained will of individuals because Congress has not acted, although it may have such relation to interstate commerce as to be within the reach of the federal power. In such cases Congress must be the judge of the necessity of federal action. Its paramount authority always enables it to intervene at its discretion for the complete and effective government of that which has been committed to its care; and, for this purpose and to this extent, in response to a conviction of national need, to displace local laws by substituting laws for its own."

This latter clause has given rise in some quarters to the rather apprehensive opinion that the Court's decision points the way to complete and exclusive control of all railway regulation, intrastate as well as interstate, by the federal government, thus leaving the individual States little or no power of control. That, however, relates to the future and is suppositional. The fact of immediate importance is the Court's declaration that until Congress acts, "the States may act," a ruling which means that at no point shall railway affairs be without some measure of supervision either by State or federal authority, and that the "twilight zone," with its chances for evading responsibility and governmental control, will cease to be.

"O FONS BANDUIAE, SPLENDIDIOR VITRO."

(From the Edgefield (S. C.) News.)

The eyesore of all eyes and the "joy forever" in old Edgefield now is the "finished product" of Penn & Holstein's brand new and surpassingly handsome soda fountain. The splendor, magnitude and suitableness of all things is most marked. This exceedingly beautiful and modern fount, with large, expansive mirrors on both sides, is a genuine treat to the eye of all observers. It is the result of commendable enterprise and pride and looks to the betterment of and confidence in the old town from an outward and visible sign. All the fixtures and appurtenances are strictly of the latest type, and any city drug store in Uncle Sam's domain would have reason to be proud of the present entrancing entrance and whole line-up of store that Penn & Holstein now hold out to the shopping public and the stranger within our gates. The boys and girls and belles and beaux and maidens and men will now revel in the unsurpassed delights of Penn & Holstein's ice cream and soda fountain apartments. And there is great joy with it all.

THE SERPENT'S STING.

(From "A Garland of Poems," by Emanuel M. Baum.)

A lesson it does teach you, to be quick and wise,
And not to fall a victim to a pair of pretty eyes;
Be careful in your judgment, in wit and everything,
And keep away from the blisses and pangs of the serpent's sting.

All things beautiful are not always mild and meek,
For they may soon turn hideous, and smite thee on the cheek;
You may not know the meaning of everything I say,
So to put you more in the light of it understand it in this way:

You may meet a woman, both beautiful and tall,
She tells you that she loves you, and at her feet you fall;
You buy her jewels by the score, and with a shining ring,
You the tunes of Mendelssohn softly to her sing;
You soon find out your error, but then it is too late,
For she has never loved you, but harbored bitter hate;
She goes off with another, and leaves you not a thing,
But to fight your own misfortune and feel the serpent's sting.

"When I say this, I don't mean you, of course, because I know that there are some of the older women who really try to think, but don't you yourself realize that the averace woman can think about as well as a horse can knit?"

"Yes, but what's the use of arguing from a premise that presupposes intelligence in women?"

"Of course, you understand that I wouldn't include you in that, but don't you honestly think that this whole suffrage commotion is kept up by a loy of blighted old maids who can't bear to see married women happy with husbands and children?"

If I Had A Million Dollars

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

I wish I had a million dollars, you say, I could do so much good with it. There are so many I would like to help. It would be such a pleasure to relieve the sufferings of this poor family, to assist that struggling young man, and to contribute generously to the church and the hospital. I know I would not be as selfish as many rich people are. If I had a million I would gratify my generous impulses.

Stop right there! Your imagination is misleading you. If you had a million dollars you would be no more liberal than you are now.

Helpfulness does not depend on the size of your income. If you are doing nothing for others on your present income of fifty dollars a month you would do the same if you had fifty thousand a month. You would be just as wrapped up in your own sweet self as you are now—and wrappeder.

For it is a well established fact that one's altruistic impulses decrease in force as one's wealth grows.

The kindest, most generous, and charitable people in the world are those who have little or nothing. The best friends to the poor are the other poor.

I have in mind now one of the most benevolent women I ever knew. She is always thinking of others. She sends flowers to her friends upon just the right occasions, she has delicious soup sent to certain people in whom she is interested in the hospitals, she plans in various societies to help needy children, she is a real "trouble woman," for wherever there is trouble there is she, to hold the nervous hand, to smooth the hot brow, and to give of her full cheer and hope to them that need. She is not rich in pocket; she has the true riches, of the heart, riches that moth and rust do not corrupt nor thieves break through and steal.

And you, if you have the root of the matter in you, can be as benevolent as the most lavish millionaire. What you need is not money, it is disposition.

For the one thing to give in this world, the one thing that is worth while, the one thing that cheers us all up and adds ozone to the soul, is—yourself.

The great gifts of the rich—it is doubtful if they do any good after all. I have my suspicions of them. But whoso gives himself, his time, his thought, his attention, his care, he is the world's real benefactor.

"The world is so waste and empty," says Goethe in his "Wilhelm Meister," "when we figure but towns and hills and rivers in it, but to know that some one is living on with us, even in silence, this makes our earthly ball a peopled garden."

I would suggest as a memorial to the originator of the thought of the Panama canal, that the United States government build, at the end of the canal where the most emigrants will enter, a splendid immigration home such as only Uncle Sam can build and equip. Let it be manned by Christian workers who speak various languages, and here let the many foreigners who shall pour through the canal be ministered unto both bodily and spiritually—and assisted in finding work.

Let the home be named Von Humboldt if need be. I suggest this because I know it will mean so much more to the world than a monument of cold stone which can do neither living nor dead any good.

Editor The Journal:

I am writing to thank you for the editorial in yesterday's Journal upon "Social Surveys and Rural Progress." You write of the Georgia club as though it were a thing of the past. It is not. It is far bigger in the present and will be still bigger in the future. Since resigning the presidency here, I am *giving my en*tire time to this work.

In a few days the federal bureau of education will be sending your a 96-page bulletin of the work of the Georgia club and the new department of economics and sociology here. I hope you will have time to look through it carefully. Know-Your-Home clubs have been established in forty-odd schools and colleges, universities, normal schools and agricultural colleges all over the United States since last September. The World's Work, 1912, and the Trend Magazine, New York City, May issue, both have full accounts of the work. The New York Evening Post and New England Journal of Education have recently had appreciative editorials upon the work of the club and its central purpose, the study of the home state as a proper curriculum concern.

Your editorial helps to give force and widening reach, influence and value to the club work and the new department.

Sixty-six county surveys have been completed and published in as many county papers. Under another cover I send you bulletins indicating the uses to which these county surveys have been put by the county authorities here and there.

Thanking you once more, I am

Cordially yours,

THE RAGTIME MUSE

TO THE UNKNOWN.

I strike a harp with muted strings
And chant a measure soft and low;
My muse melodiously sings
Of heroes that men do not know.
O brave unknown! Oblivion deep
I probe to bring you fleeting fame.
And for at least a moment sweep
Aside th' mists that hide each name.

Thou spouse of some bold suffragette,
Thou father of war waging girls,
Take these ephemeral bays I set
Upon thy hypothetic curls!
A wreath I give each trousered him,
Each "general's" spouse who heaves no stones!
Thus each escapes that fate so grim,
Place with the Utterly Unknowns!

I single peaceful menfolk out
Whose wives so militant and fair
Have stormed fame's ramparts with a shout
And wave triumphant banners there.
I sing men lean, I sing men fat,
Yes, each of that fond, fameless clan
Named—you at least should grant he's that—
"The harmless, necessary man!"

If a woman ever does find her ideal man, she almost invariably discovers that some other woman has a prior claim on him.

MACARONI AND NOODLES

By Frederic J. Haskin

Most people have an idea that macaroni is a distinctly Italian food product and that the macaroni served upon American tables is imported from Italy. As a matter of fact, the manufacture of macaroni in the United States is becoming an important industry and soon will assume a recognized position among American exports. The National Association of Macaroni and Noodle Manufacturers of America now is meeting in annual convention in Milwaukee. This organization has rapidly increased in membership and importance since its first convention was held in Pittsburg in 1904. It now has representatives in almost every state. Its objects are to promote the best interests of the paste products trade by elevating it through the application of science and advanced practices of manufacture, by assisting manufacturers in securing skilled and experienced operatives and by securing every protection possible for the development of the business.

• • •

The fact that congress has been considering reducing the present tariff duty of 1 1-2 cents a pound upon macaroni and other edible pastes may have an influence upon the growth of the macaroni trade and has given the tariff a prominent place upon the program of the convention. A committee already has appeared before the ways and means committee of congress to protest against this reduction. At present the macaroni industry is not controlled by any sort of trust or combination. Each manufacturer makes and markets his products as he sees fit which places each factory upon a highly competitive basis.

• • •

Although supposedly of Italian origin, in reality the use of such paste foods as macaroni dates back before the time of the ancient Greeks. The story is told that a prehistoric woman was mixing bread when a quantity of leaves from an overhanging tree fell into her dough. She pressed the dough through a coarse sieve to extract the leaves and conceived the idea of letting the thin sticks of dough thus made dry in the sun instead of baking the mass into cakes upon hot stones as had been her method. This new culinary process was so successful that it increased in popular favor. Larger and stronger sieves were made and at first huge stones were used to give the pressure to force the dough out through the holes. From this crude sieve has developed the various machines used today in the manufacture of the paste products. In china also the use of a food prepared from glutinous wheat, and similar in composition to macaroni, has been general from prehistoric time. The noodles eaten with such relish by Americans who visit Chinese restaurants are of such ancient origin that no record remains of their beginning. The Chinese cook rolls them with a peculiar motion and cuts them into yard lengths with his long triangular knife after the fashion of the cooks of the earliest dynasties.

• • •

The Italian pastes and those of the best grades of American factories are manufactured exclusively of durum wheat which differs materially in quality from other wheat. The department of agriculture has been experimenting with durum wheat in this country since 1864, but the earlier efforts of introduction were unsuccessful. In 1898 a specialist was *sent by the de*partment to Russia in search of drought resisting cereals for the dry lands of the western states. A number of varieties were obtained, among them the Kubanka and the Arnautka which have proved superior. The durum varieties are all spring wheats, but differ materially from other spring wheats in size and in the character of both plant and grain.

• • •

The plant is taller than the common wheat, has wider leaves and generally matures earlier. The heads are broader and more compact and usually shorter. The beards are exceptionally long and stiff which, with the shape of the head, often cause the plant to be mistaken for barley by those not familiar with the grain. he grains are large and hard as indicated by the name, the word "durum" meaning very hard. This wheat is generally clear amber in color instead of the reddish shade of most other wheats. The durum wheats are less subject to smut and rust and more drought resisting than other wheat because they have grown for centuries in countries subject to severe droughts.

• • •

About 87 per cent of the durum wheat grown in this country is raised in North and South Dakota, Minnesota ranks third, producing about 7 per cent of the entire crop, and practically all of the remaining 5 or 6 per cent is raised in Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming and Montana. At first the price of durum wheat was lower than for other varieties and farmers were unwilling to cultivate it, especially as the stiff, hard beard made it unpleasant to handle. Recently, however, the market value has increased until on April 15, last, durum wheat sold at 6 1-4 cents premium over No. 1 northern wheat in Minneapolis, and at 8 1-2 cents premium in Duluth. The increase in value is due to the fact that the demand for macaroni and other pasts products has increased. The durum wheat raised in this country not only supplies the American manufacturer of these food products, but also is being shipped to Europe in large quantities to supply the lack there.

• • •

The manufacture of macaroni and kindred foods is a comparatively simple process which, until recently, was performed with rather crude machinery a large part of the work being done by hand with little regard for sanitary precautions. From the beginning the American manufacturers used highgrade machinery and their products were sent out from factories provided with every equipment for sanitation. Most American manufacturers can truthfully say in their advertisements "Our products do not come into contact with the human hand." In addition to this the highest sci*entific skill* has been called in to determine the atmospheric conditions of the drying room as well as the chemical composition of the wheat used.

• • •

The process is comparatively simple. The durum wheat is first ground into coarse sort of flour known as seminola. This is mixed with hot water into a stiff dough. In American factories, as well as in the modern Italian establishments this is done by a mixing machine similar to that used in modern bakeries. In the early days in Italy this dough was mixed by hand by the operators. The dough in America is kneaded in a second machine with heavy rollers and passed into a third machine where it is rolled into long thin sheets and then pressed into rolls about three feet long and a foot in diameter. These rolls are placed in a cylinder having a perforated plate at the bottom with wires suspended in each perforation, if macaroni is intended. Pressure is then applied and the dough is forced through these orifices into long hollow tubes, their diameter varying according to the size of the perforations in the bottom of the cylinder.

• • •

The macaroni in most popular demand is from an eighth to a half inch in diameter. Some is made as much as an inch in diameter and its size varies from that to the threadlike proportions of vermicelli. The same paste is used for all, and in addition to these there are small figures cut out of thin sheets of the dough which are known as "pasties" in Italy and are popular for use in soups. While all Italian macaroni has been made of durum wheat, the cheaper American products at first were manufactured of other wheat partly because the durum wheat until recently was not so easy to obtain. The product of other wheat is pasty and lighter in color than the best macaroni, and is not so nutritious. The characteristics of good macaroni should be a rich creamy coloring without the indication of coloring matter, translucent or *semi-trans*parent appearance *and a considerable amount of elas*ticity so that the sticks can be bent somewhat without breaking.

WAYWARD GIRLS' HOME HAS PLEDGES OF SUPPORT

Leaders of General Assembly Are Said to Have Promised Their Votes

Leaders in the general assembly, both in house and senate, are said to have agreed to endorse and support a bill providing for the establishment of a reformatory of industrial home for wayward girls by the state of Georgia.

The proposed move by the legislature has received already the endorsement of most of the superior court judges in the state, and, of all of the women's clubs.

The fact is stressed that while the state reformatory at Milledgeville is designed under the law to take care of both boys and girls, it has resources sufficient to care for wayward boys only, and that in establishing a home now for wayward girls, the legislature simply will carry out what the Georgia law already contemplates.

There is no state institution in Georgia at present where young girls who have become wayward through circumstances or environment, can be saved from threatened ruin and vice.

Among the senators who have agreed to support this measure are Randolph Anderson, O. H. Elkin, B. S. Miller, G. G. Perry, R. T. DuBose, W. W. Stark, M. D. Irwin, J. W. Brown and M. C. Tarver.

Among the members of the house who will support the measure are E. E. Anderson of Banks, E. D. Cole of Bartow, W. A. Dodd of Bartow, Minter Wimberly of Bibb, H. J. Fullbright of Burke, J. H. Mills of Butts, W. F. Cook of Chattahoochee, F. A. Lipscomb of Clarke, J. T. Rhodes of Clarke, G. M. Jones of Coweta, O. T. Gower of Crisp, C. M. Clark, Sr., of Dougherty, John C. Foster, of Floyd, Ernest Neal of Gordon, J. O. Adams of Hall, W. T. Burwell of Hancock, A. A. McCurry of Hart, R. N. Holtzclaw of Houston, P. S. Burney of Morgan, J. J. Slade of Muscogee, Ed Wohlwender of Muscogee, A. L. Loyd of Newton, Crawford Wheatley of Sumter, J. E. Sheppard of Sumter, Tinsley Ragland of Talbot, F. G. Booker of Wilkes and G. A. Green of Wilkes.

The proposed institution will be known as the Georgia State Industrial Home for Girls. It will be for girls of sixteen years of age and under. The question of proper location for the industrial home will be left open, to be decided by a board of managers to be appointed by the governor.

Judges will be empowered to commit to this institution any girl under sixteen years of age who is guilty of misdemeanor or who habitually associates with vicious or immoral persons, or who is incorrigible to such an extent that she cannot be controlled by her parents or guardian.

GOVERNOR OFFERS REWARD FOR WIMBERLY POISONER

Governor Joseph M. Brown has offered a reward of $200 for the arrest and conviction of the poisoners of J. D. Wimberly, Abbeville postmaster, who died June 3, after drinking from a flask of whisky left in his office.

The reward was made on information given to the executive office by Ordinary J. M. Warren, of Wilcox county. The ordinary, in a letter to the governor, said that some person or persons, put poison in a bottle of whisky and left it in Wimberly's office. Next day the postmaster, thinking the whisky had been sent by friends, mixed a toddy and drank it. He sickened suddenly and died within an hour.

TO ABOLISH SOLICITORS, BILL WILL BE OFFERED

Another fight having for its object an amendment to the state constitution which will abolish the offices of solicitors general and provide in their stead the offices of county prosecuting attorneys, probably will be made at the session of the legislature which convenes on June 25.

A bill of this character last year came very near mustering enough votes to pass. Representative H. J. Fullbright, of Burke, one of the authors of last year's bill will reintroduce the measure this year. The question must be submitted to the vote of the people, before the state constitution can be amended.

WOMAN IN RIVER RESCUED BY OLAN COLBERT, CAMPER

In accounts of the narrow escape of Mrs. Ethel Smith, of Rawson street, from death by drowning in the Chattahoochee river, the name of her rescuer has not been published. Olan Colbert is his name. He states that he did not even have to get into the water to save her, but that when the swift current washed her up against a big log jutting out into the river, he extended a tree limb to her and so pulled her out.

THREE BRANDS OF HOSE PURCHASED BY THE CITY

Mayor Woodward Raps Chief Cummings for Insisting on Eureka Company's Hose

The city board of firemasters finally reached a conclusion Wednesday afternoon as to the purchase of fire hose.

They bought 1,000 feet of Paragon brand at $1.10 per foot from the Eureka Fire Hose Manufacturing company; 500 feet of Economy brand at 80 cents per foot from the Manhattan Fire Hose Manufacturing company, and 500 feet of White King brand at 80 cents per foot from the B. F. Goodrich Tire and Rubber company, through this company's Atlanta agents, the Cotton States Belting and Supply company.

The contract was divided in this way because the board wanted to experiment with different brands. If hose at 80 and 90 cents per foot proves to be as good as hose at $1.10 per foot, then there is no reason why the city should pay the higher price.

Fire Chief Cummings opposed the purchase of any but Paragon hose, on the ground that it is false economy to equip the department with cheap hose.

Mayor Woodward remarked that it looked as if Chief Cummings considered no hose on the market any good except the hose of the Eureka company, represented in Atlanta by P. O. Hebert, agent.

The Eureka is the company that had been selling practically all the hose used in the fire department, under Chief Cummings' administration, until Mayor Woodward made a fight for competitive bids and forced the present contract to be opened so that all manufacturers might have an opportunity to bid.

ON ASSAULT TO MURDER CHARGE, BRIDWELL HELD

On the charge of "assault with intent to murder," Arthur Bridwell was bound over to the higher courts by the police recorder Wednesday afternoon for the stabbing of O. W. Gilbert in the Georgia pool room, 40 Peachtree street. J. F. Grogan, manager of the place, testified that he heard Bridwell say as he stabbed Gilbert, "This is the revenge of seven years."

COMPULSORY EDUCATION TO BE AN ISSUE AGAIN

Representative Fullbright Again Will Introduce Bill to Create That Law

A bill providing for compulsory education of children between the ages of seven and twelve years will be introduced in the approaching session of the legislature by Representative H. J. Fullbright, of Burke.

Last session Mr. Fullbright introduced a similar bill, which received a favorable report from the house committee on education, but was not passed.

Mr. Fullbright's bill will provide that children between the ages of seven and twelve years must attend the school at least sixty days each year. A great deal of discretion is left with the county boards as to the penalizing of parents and guardians who fail to send their children to school as required.

Advocating a sane and moderate form of compulsory education law, M. L. Brittain, state superintendent of schools, says:

"Georgia is one of the only six states having no form of law with regard to compulsory school attendance. Within the last few weeks North Carolina has adopted this legislation and besides this, the general assembly of that state requires each county to maintain schools for a term of at least six month in the year and appropriates $400,000 extra for this purpose."

POLITICS BUZZ AS DAY OF LAW-MAKING NEARS

Hotel Lobbies Begin to Take on Annual Appearance of Caucus and Conference

Things political are beginning to hum around Atlanta. Some of the preliminary skirmishes incident to the convening of the legislature are already under way and the hotel lobbies are beginning to be peopled with politicians of varying degrees and differing interests.

The two candidates for president of the senate—J. Randolph Anderson, of the First district, and Judge John T. Allen, of the Twentieth—both have opened headquarters and are greeting their friends and incidentally coaxing the elusive votes.

The hotel clerk, doubtless a man of humor and, wit, assigned the two rival candidates to adjoining rooms for their headquarters.

Mr. Anderson has No. 213 and Judge Allen has No. 211. This arrangement may be a little embarassing to the "boys" who come up to talk it over with both candidates, but the candidates will be in a good position to keep tab on the "boys."

Robert N. Hardeman, representative from Jefferson county, and candidate for speaker of the next house, has engaged headquarters at the Kimball, which will be open some time within the next few days. Representative Hardeman has for several years been one of the most popular and influential members of the legislature.

Headquarters have been secured in the Kimball by the advocates also of the new counties of Barrow and Metter, and within the next few days headquarters of various other interests will be opened.

FULTON TEACHERS' EXAMS ON FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

The state teachers' examinations for Fulton county will be held on Friday and Saturday, June 13 and 14.

The examination for white teachers will be held in the hall of representatives in the state capitol, and the examination for colored teachers will be held in Giles' hall at Spellman seminary.

The examinations must be commenced not later than 8:30 o'clock on the morning of Friday, and applicants will not be allowed to leave for lunch.

LEE OPTIMISTIC OVER THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK

Georgia Congressman, in Atlanta, Predicts Early Readjustment to New Tariff

It would do the calamity howlers—provided, of course, there are any such microbes in the south—genuine good to have a brief talk with Congressman Gordon Lee, of the seventh Georgia district.

Congressman Lee is thoroughly optimistic concerning the business conditions of the country and the successful and prosperous administration of the country's affairs by the Democratic party.

It is the confident expectation of Congressman Lee that the tariff question will be settled soon by congress and that the country will readjust itself rapidly to the new conditions. He expects also that congress at the present extra session will pass a banking and currency bill.

"I am looking for congress to adjourn in September," said Congressman Lee.

He passed through Atlanta Wednesday evening, from a meeting of the board of trustees of Emory College en route to his home near Chickamauga. He will remain at home for a few days before returning to Washington.

"The country will have three month's rest before the regular session of congress opens in December," said Congressman Lee. Referring particularly to Georgia he said:

"If weather conditions are favorable and we have a good crop year, there is no reason why this should not be the most prosperous year in the history of the state."

Your Summer Home should be provided with the piano that anyone can play, for there will be rainy days and dull evenings.

RENEWED BULL SUPPORT CAUSED RISE IN COTTON

Market in New York Closed 9 to 13 Points Higher Than the Previous Close

NEW YORK, June 12.—Cotton opened steady at 5 points of 6 points to 9 points lower on the weather map was considered more favorable as it showed clearing conditions with rising temperatures, but offerings were not heavy and the market firmed up during the early trading on reports of shorts and a scattering demand, part of which seemed to come from trade sources. There was some southern selling of July, said to be against possible shipments from the south, and that position was relatively easy, selling about 3 points above the closing figures of last night, while the new crop months gained 4 to 9 points soon after the opening.

Covering became active later on reports of improving spot demand and failure of better weather reports to stimulate offerings. Stop orders were uncovered at the market was 8 to 16 points net higher at noon.

The market was less active during the early afternoon, but showed continued strength, with all positions rallying to the best point for the day, July being specially firm, and the general movement and selling about 19 to 24 points higher on covering of shorts. It seemed to be influenced by hot temperatures in the south and a steady spot demand.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, June 12.—Cotton futures opened steady at a decline of 1 to 3 points. Fallure of rain here and in the Carolina sections over the cotton region showed decided improvement and caused considerable selling. Trade reports were the lowest in the early trading as a good demand started after the call, based on the large sales of spot cotton in the Liverpool market and the report that there was a good demand for actual cotton for prompt shipment. Offerings were slender and prices advanced quickly, standing at an advance of 6 to 10 points yesterday's close at the end of the first half hour of business.

The detailed weather report at 10 o'clock showed lower temperatures in the belt than were indicated on the weather map and these stimulated the demand still further. At no time during the morning were offerings free and bids displayed a tendency to force concealed profits on the rise. Private messages from Liverpool stated that the spot demand after hours was good and it was reported that English traders were large buyers of the new crop months on this side of the water. At the highlight of the morning the trading months were 15 to 19 points over yesterday's closing prices. At noon the market was quiet and steady at a net rise of 12 to 16 points.

COTTON MARKET OPINIONS.

Thomson, Price & Co.: We advise buying August and new crop on any slight reaction.

Norris & Hirt: Do not expect any break of consequence and would buy conservatively on any moderate breaks.

Marer & Co.: Advise selling new crops on spots for small profits.

INTERESTING NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE MARKETS

Weather Reports, Crop Advices, Expert Opinions and Newspaper Comment

COTTON GOSSIP

Dodd Remorest says: Low price people defined more satisfaction out of the fact that the cotton market did not advance than out of the fact that it did advance. Big fallure was reported by London, and another by Glasgow. The weather bureau promised clearing weather after some further rains in south Texas. The stock market was lower, but sustained heavy losses of the actual at Liverpool, the existence of excellent trade as shown by the British board of trade returns, the presence of abnormally cool weather over the belt and an average deficiency of 1.20 inches below normal in the Texas rainfall record for May robbed the day's decline of bearish glory, and at the close the talent as a whole seemed to be fighting sky of the short interest. Clearing of the sewed up condition of July they said. Looking back, they said, the people now recall the many days of cool weather throughout the cotton belt this spring and crop experts are frank in their assertions that the cotton belt generally states need warmer weather. Yesterday's temperature reports showed a decided improvement since the year about on a parity with the minimum temperature for the same time in the record breaking season of 1911-12. Today is the oft repeated claim that the quality of the seed, taking the belt as a whole, is below normal. The talent, in the main, knows nothing about the quality of the seed in advance of the yield promised generally. Rainfall statistics little importance to such claims.

Map shows rains have ceased south and west Texas and Carolinas, where cloudy weather in central states, good general showers south and west of Texas and Oklahoma. No rain elsewhere, low minimum temperatures eastern states with those of yesterday morning. Weather got warmer since and indications are for fair to clear weather all over except possibly more rain in south and west Texas.

The market, with its large short interest, is very susceptible to bullish influences in the favorable reports on crops. Much depends on the weather and what kind of a crop as spotted as it is now and as much late cotton as we believe but we look for exceptionally fine prospects for the future in order to satisfy the demands for fall requirements. At the moment higher prices seem probable.

Habersham King, in his latest report, says: "While temperatures were below normal in all portions of the belt except North Carolina, it was rather favorable for cotton. Rain was general except in Texas and Louisiana. Temperature is well advanced, except that in northern and eastern Alabama and the Carolinas and parts of Georgia, where it was in excess of needs and sufficiently warm. Weeds are getting ahead with grass, while along the western edge of Texas they are getting the best of it. Taking into consider the week's developments favorable to 95 per cent and a half of a crop as spotted as it is.

Forecast—Louisiana: Tonight and Friday generally fair; light to moderate northeast winds on the coast.

Arkansas: Tonight and Friday fair; rising temperature.

Oklahoma: Tonight and Friday generally clearing.

East Texas: Tonight and Friday unsettled showers; warmer Friday in the interior; Friday light to moderate easterly winds on the coast.

West Texas: Unsettled shower tonight or Friday.

Kentucky: Fair tonight and Friday.

Tennessee: Unsettled tonight; Fair tonight and Friday.

Georgia: Fair tonight and Friday, with slowly rising temperature.

Alabama: Fair tonight and Friday.

North Carolina, South Carolina and Florida: Fair and warmer tonight and Friday.

11 a. m. bids in New York were as follows: January, 11.45c; July, 11.97c; October, 11.29c.

10 a. m. bids in New York were as follows: July, 11.95c; July, 12.22c; August, 11.88c; October, 11.25c.

Schill was the best buyer on call. Cone and Hentz bought on the break. Spot sales scattered.

Liverpool is a big buyer of the new crop. General buying by the commission houses. Some spot people are buying July.

Howard Wilson was a big buyer of October. Gwathmey, Cone, Hentz and Riordan were good buyers. Selling was scattered. Looks like room for sales.

Dow Jones summary: Hearing Union Pacific dissolution suit in St. Paul today. Secretary McAdoo will issue $500,000,000 national banks under Aldrich-Vreeland emergency currency law if banks desire them. Opposition to currency legislation is often expressed. Reports that Government sues to dissolve Quaker Oats company and Great Northern-Northern Pacific-Sherman law. Bank of England rate unchanged at 4½ per cent. Active industrials declined .25. Twenty active rails declined .08.

Looks as if prices would be some lower the early part of the session. The Union Pacific and Southern Pacific dissolution suit will have a hearing today, but it is one of the least important factors, much still depend on the outcome.—Potter.

Expert authorities claim there are not more than six states east of those west of Mississippi river in which there are any controversies effected by rate decision, in Minnesota total traffic affected is only about one-fifth of volume of the whole business of the companies involved. Also think these facts will be realized in time and investors who buy and pay for securities now will reap benefit later. Think Northern Pacific is attractive, even if reduced to a 5 per cent dividend which is not at all likely within a year. Average earnings for the past ten days with us exceeds any volume since 1907.—Clark.

There is good buying of Chino and Utah.—Bell & Co.

Bonds were strong, but not any stocks, good people tell me a good rally has started.—Potter.

Attorney General McReynolds objected to plans of dissolution of Southern Pacific and Union Pacific submitted to court.

VICE SQUAD NETS DRAG SEVERAL BEFORE JUDGE

Police Records Show Results From Renewed Activity With Reinstated Vice Squad

Results from the activity of the police against clandestine vice in the city were evident on the records at headquarters Thursday morning. The vice squad, discontinued by order of the police board and put back on duty recently by authority of the same body, seems to be keeping a watchful eye on the city's habits by night.

The records showed that A. W. Branson, whom the police say gave his occupation as that of a locomotive engineer, was arrested on the street in company with two women giving their names as Mrs. Lula McIvet and Mrs. Pierson. E. L. Finney, elevator boy in a downtown office building, was another of the group. He was held first as a witness, but a case was docketed against him charging that he was drunk. The women were fined $25 and costs apiece. Brannan was fined $10.75. The elevator boy was fined $19.75. The vice squad members testified they watched the women enter the office building and followed them to an office, which they entered, remaining inside several minutes. The elevator boy testified he let them in to use a telephone. They were arrested after they left the building.

The police docket showed also the names of Virginia Travers, said to be from Savannah, and J. E. Alexander, describing himself to the police as a salesman from Chattanooga. They were arrested and taken from a local hotel by request Wednesday night. They will be tried Thursday afternoon.

Charles James, of Montgomery; Louise Smith, of Fredericksburg, Va., and Ruth Brown, of Montgomery, were the names of another trio registered on the police record. They were arrested in the Albion hotel by Officer Harrison and were bound over to the higher courts under bond of $500 each.

Kate Whiteburg, of 8 Trinity avenue, and Valera Gunn, of 156 Tatnall place, were arrested on the street. They will be tried Thursday afternoon.

Lula Burdig, of 582 Simpson street, was arrested there with four men who gave their names as W. D. Terry, of West Alexander street; W. B. Snyder, of 127 Courtland; P. J. Simmons, of Chattanooga, and John Sims, of Plum Branch, S. C. They will be tried Thursday afternoon.

A WORKER APPRECIATES THIS

Wm. Morris, a resident of Florence, Oregon, says: "For the last fourteen years my kidneys and bladder incapacitated me for all work. About eight months ago I began using Foley Kidney Pills, and they have done what other medicines failed to do, and now I am feeling and feeling fine. I heartily recommend Foley Kidney Pills." Foley Kidney Pills do not contain habit forming drugs and are tonic in acting, quick in results. They will help any case of kidney trouble not beyond the reach of medicine. THEY'RE HAVING BIG FUN DOWN AT ATLANTIC BEACH

President of Atlantic Beach Corporation Writes Glowing Reports to Atlanta

St. Elmo Massengale, who recently visited Atlantic Beach, Fla., has received a letter from E. R. Brackett, president of the Atlantic Beach corporation, in which Mr. Brackett gives glowing reports of how things are going on there.

"The Atlantic Beach hotel, formerly the old Continental, is certainly coming ahead its new dress," he writes. "Everybody seems pleased," he said, "and many compliments are heard on all sides for the hotel."

On the day the letter was written, said Mr. Brackett, "they were making a specialty of fresh shrimp, fresh lobster, fresh clams, and fresh fish caught by their own men. There were twelve varieties in all."

ELIZABETH FLYNN TO BE TRIED JUNE 23

(By Associated Press.)

PATERSON, N. J., June 12.—Elizabeth Gurley Flynn will be the next of the indicted Industrial Workers of the World leaders to be tried for inciting riot in connection with the silk workers' strike. The prosecutor announced today that he would move for trial of the case on Monday, June 23. William D. Haywood and others then will be tried.

Three ribbon mills resumed work today with short forces. The strikers insist this does not mean the strike is breaking up.

Chicago's Activity

CHICAGO, June 12.—Chicago is enjoying the greatest building activity in its history. Since January 1 permits for 508 buildings, involving an estimated cost of $10,516,000 have been issued, according to a report issued today by the building department.

THEATERS

Criticisms of all the performances at the local theaters are written by members of the Journal staff. All other matter appearing in this column is furnished by the theater managements.

FORSYTH—Vaudeville.
BIJOU—Vaudeville and Pictures.

A great attendance at the Forsyth is greeting the attraction this week, a good evenly balanced bill of high quality Keith vaudeville.

There are hits distributed all through the program. Roehm's Athletic Girls, the last act on the program, hold the attention of every audience right until the end of the act. The young ladies are expert in boxing, and their wrestling match at the finish is exciting.

Johnny Burke at the piano, assisted by Mae Burke, records one of the big hits of the week. He really picks a piano to pieces, and there is good comedy in the act.

The other acts are clever, the theater is being crowded to capacity at every performance and an advance sale is piling up.

For the coming week the headliner will be Bud Fisher, the creator of "Mutt and Jeff," and a feature will be "The Lawn Party," with ten pretty youngsters who are more than interesting in impersonations.

Judging from the cordial reception, generous applause and curtain calls that have been accorded "Hiram at the Cabaret" this week at the Bijou, the week's engagement should prove one of the most successful so far since the establishment of musical comedy tabloid at the Bijou. "Hiram" is a positive cure for the blues. From curtain to curtain there is not a dull moment, or a minute in which there is not something doing to keep the audience interested and amused. The musical numbers are all bright and catchy, the costumes clean and fetching, and the scenic effects good. Taken as a whole, "Hiram at the Cabaret" will rank with the best tabloids that will be seen this season at the Bijou. Wally Brooks is a comedian of original methods, and he is assisted by a lot of clever principals and an attractive chorus. During the week matinees are given at 3 o'clock daily, except on Monday and Saturday, when two matinees are given at 2:30 and 4. Night shows are given at 7:30 and 9. The next attraction scheduled for the Bijou will be the "Duke of Durham," another successful musical show that comes to Atlanta with the acknowledged reputation of being one of the best tabloids on the circuit.

The advance sale for the engagement of the "Quo Vadis" pictures at the Grand, comencing with matinee on next Monday and continuing all the week, started at the Grand box office Thursday morning. The wonderful success of the pictures at the Astor theater in New York attracted some Atlanta visitors who have been talking about the exhibition ever since their return here. William Oldknow, one of the south's pioneer picture theater men, who also operates a big film exchange, declares that "Quo Vadis" is the greatest picture that has been seen on any screen. Mr. Oldknow has seen the picture several times, and declares he hopes to see it again.

"Quo Vadis" is an authentic photo-drama analysis of Sienkiewicz's romance. As told by this film, it preaches a powerful sermon that gives pleasure to the thousands and commands the attention of people in every walk of life. The thrilling drama is retold in photos with a vividness that the story or its oral dramatic depiction fails to impart.

These pictures, of Italian make, are strikingly representative of the Italians' skill in acting before the camera and of their resources in the production of picture plays.

Sienkiewicz's story of Nero's Rome is illustrated in detail. The work of reproduction was a task of amazing magnitude, ample proof of which is afforded in the scenes showing the burning of Rome.

HIGH FRATERNAL MAN SPENT WEDNESDAY HERE

Prof. F. F. Roose, of Denver, Colo., one of the foremost secret and fraternal order men in America, spent Wednesday in Atlanta as the guest of Newman Laser and Shepard Bryan. Prof. Roose passed through Atlanta on his way to Jacksonville to attend the convention of the Woodmen of the World.

Prof. Roose, A. R. Tolbert and J. C. Root were the founders of the Modern Woodmen of America. Mr. Roose was for four years head adviser of that body. He was for nine years sovereign banker of the Woodmen of the World, and resigned his office to become supreme president of the Fraternal Union of America, whose home ojees are located in Denver. He was the head of that institution for sixteen years and retired on April 10 of last year. Prof. Roose is a well known educator, a graduate from noted colleges. He is a member of many secret and fraternal organizations, and has held important offices in the highest bodies of many.

This was Prof. Roose's first visit to the south in twenty-five years, and he was high in his praises of the growth of Atlanta and the prosperity and energy of her people. Upon his return from Jacksonville, Prof. Roose will visit some of the principal cities in America and then take a trip abroad.

TECH GRADS LUNCH AS GUESTS OF BUSINESS

Gov. Brown Tells Them He Has Reason to Expect Doubled Tech Appropriation

Business Atlanta, through the chamber of commerce, showed its appreciation of the value to the city of the Georgia School of Technology, in the brilliant luncheon that was tendered the members of the faculty, the trustees, and the graduating class, at the Capital City club Wednesday afternoon.

In the hall room fully 250 guests were seated. The gathering was representative of the business, commercial and professional interests of Atlanta, and a large percentage of those present were members of the chamber of commerce.

Wilmer L. Moore, president of the chamber of commerce, presided at the speaker's table. In a short address, he paid a tribute to Tech and laid stress on its value to the city. He was cheered when he pledged the support of the chamber to the school and suggested that the luncheon become an annual event.

An ovation was tendered Governor Joseph M. Brown when he stated that he had reason to believe that the appropriation for the maintenance and improvement of Tech would be doubled in the near future.

Dr. K. G. Matheson, president, to whom Mr. Moore referred as the "best lobbyist in Georgia," extended the thanks of Tech to the chamber of commerce. He referred also to the support the people of Atlanta always have given to the school, and the manner in which they have co-operated for its best interest. He pledged to them the best technological school in the south for the continuation of this support.

GOVERNOR WILL WATCH SKIRMISHING TUESDAY

National Guard Rifle Shoot to Be Attended by Chief Executive of State

The second day's events at the annual shoot of the national guard of Georgia at the rifle range near Fort McPherson were marked by creditable scores made by all the performers.

Wednesday afternoon 600 yards slow fire was tried, and Thursday morning the marksmen shot slow fire at 1,000 yards. Thursday afternoon Governor Brown and his staff were expected to visited the range to witness the skirmishing.

CHARGE HE FLOODED ROME WITH BOY "DETECTIVES"

ROME, Ga., June 12.—T. C. Eubanks, a well known Roman, is under arrest charged with operating a fake detective agency for the purpose of extracting coin from young men. His field of labor is said to have been chiefly among cotton mill operatives, and it was charged that for 50 cents he would sell a bright tin star with the words "Interstate Detective Agency" inscribed thereon, and for 10 cents additional a card of credentials. A number of boys in Rome and Lindale were found wearing such badges, and the fraud was exposed by a number of them attempting to gain admission of the chamber of commerce here by flashing their badges.

GEORGIA MEN OF 1908 TO HOLD FIFTH REUNION

Alumni to Enjoy Commencement Festivities and Their Own Class Dinner

Atlanta men in the class of 1908 of the University of Georgia will start Friday on a pilgrimage to Athens to attend the fifth reunion of the class. The commencement program consists of a Thalian Dramatic club performance Friday night, a baseball game between the varsity and the alumni Saturday afternoon, a dance Saturday night, church-going and "fussing" Sunday, and the 1908 class dinner at the Georgian hotel Monday night.

Tuesday is "alumni day," when the general alumni association holds its annual meeting and luncheon.

Thomas W. Connally and Harrison Jones, of Atlanta, will lay before the alumni a plan for establishing an "alumni bureau" in Athens, with a paid secretary in charge to distribute university literature, edit a publication, compile lists of alumni, and keep up with graduates generally. Members of 1908 are in favor of the movement.

The 1908 reunion promises to be the greatest "come-back" in many a day. Will Hutchens will arrive from Phoenix, Ariz., and he is expected to take the class cup for long distance, although W. Florence will journey from Missouri and push him hard. Wylie C. Henson, of Cartersville, probably will be awarded the blue ribbon for the "class baby." A. L. Lloyd, of Covington, has achieved the greatest political distinction in a recent elevation to the state legislature. Walter E. Stone is due from Pennsylvania. When last seen, Percy McNeely was in the wilds of Alabama, but he is expected to show up with his mandolin for the official serenades.

There was consternation in the 1908 camp when it was announced that the Lucy Cobb institute had adjourned for the year at Athens; but the class bachelors took hope when they learned that a number of the girls had decided to stay over for commencement.

Among the Atlanta men who will go over are Saunders Jones, John Pitts, Dozier Lowndes, Wallace Draper, Wallace Daley, Frank Martin, George M. Battey, Jr., Guy Whelchel, Allen H. Bunce, W. P. Slaton, Jr., Andrew Nicholson, Carroll D. Cabaniss, Jackson P. Dick, Willard Patterson and Remsen King; and those from scattering points will be John Davison, of Conner; Joe Dunson and Harry Black, of LaGrange; R. B. Booth and W. A. Booth and W. T. Tuck, of Athens; A. L. Ivey and Addison Price, of Milledgeville; Stafford Montgomery, of Riverside, Ill.; L. F. Elrod, of Jefferson; De-Witt Hubbard, of South Carolina; Ray Blackmar, Mercer Blanchard, Sam Hatcher and George Swift, of Columbus; James S. Bussey, Jr., and Chan Brinson, of Augusta; Haywood Deane, of Griffin, and Floyd Newton and E. B. Walker, of Madison.

IN SUCH PAIN WOMAN TORE HER CLOTHES

Testifies She Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Malone, N. Y.,— "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has certainly done me a lot of good. I first heard of it when I was a girl and I always said that if I ever had female trouble I would take it.

I suffered from organic inflammation and would have spells when I would be in such pain that I would tear my clothes. One day my husband got the neighbors in to see what the matter was but they could not help me. My first thought was for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I sent my husband out for it and took it until I was entirely cured. I am a woman of perfect health and my health and happiness came from Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine. You may rest assured that I do all I can to recommend your wonderful medicine to my friends."—MRS. FRED STONE, Route No. 3, Malone, N. Y.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills.

To The Young Expectant Mother

Women of Experience Advise the Use of Mother's Friend.

There is some trepidation in the minds of most women in regard to motherhood.

But there need be no such dread in view of the fact that we have an effective remedy in what is known as Mother's Friend.

This is an external application that has a wonderful influence and control over the muscular tissues of the abdomen. By its daily use these muscles, tendons and ligaments all gently expand without the slightest strain; there is no pain, no nausea, no nervousness, what was dreaded as a severe physical ordeal becomes a calm, serene, joyful anticipation.

In almost every community there are women who have used Mother's Friend, and they are the ones that recovered quickly.

Mother's Friend is prepared after the formula of a noted family doctor, by the Bradfield Regulator Co., 238 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Write them for their instructive book for expectant mothers. You will find Mother's Friend on sale by all drug stores at $1.00 a bottle.

LEGAL NOTICES.

GEORGIA, Fulton County.—B. F. Montgomery vs. Lillie G. Montgomery. Fulton Superior Court.

Mrs. Lillie G. Montgomery: By order of Court, you are notified that on June 7th, 1913, B. F. Montgomery filed suit for divorce to the September term of the Superior Court of said county. You are to be and appear at the September term of said court, on the first Monday in September, 1913, then and there to answer plaintiff's complaint.

Witness the Hon. J. T. Pendleton, Judge of said Court, this — day of June, 1913.

ARNOLD BROYLES, Clerk.

GEORGIA, FULTON COUNTY.—To the Superior Court of Said County: The petition of Panama Coca-Cola Bottling company, respectfully shows:

1st. That on the 6th day of December, 1910, it was duly incorporated by the order of this court, as will more fully appear from the records on file in the office of the clerk of this court.

2nd. That the entire outstanding capital stock of said corporation is now owned by five parties, to-wit: W. L. King and A. C. King.

3rd. That the only debts of said corporation are small current accounts incurred during the preceding month.

4th. That at a meeting of the stockholders, held in the city of Atlanta, on the 26th day of May, 1913, at which every share of the outstanding stock of said corporation was represented, it was unanimously decided, a resolution was unanimously passed, authorizing and directing the officers of said corporation to apply to this court for permission to surrender the corporate franchises and dissolve said corporation.

5th. That the assets of said corporation are far in excess of its liabilities thereof, and the stockholders desire to assume personal responsibility for said debts and pay the same immediately out of the assets of said corporation. It being the object and purpose of said stockholders to continue said business as a partnership.

WHEREFORE, Petitioner prays that it be allowed to surrender its franchise and to become dissolved as a corporation in pursuance with the act of the legislature of 1910.

CANDLER, THOMAS & HIRSCH,
Attorneys for Petitioner.

GEORGIA, FULTON COUNTY.

Before me, a Notary Public in and for said county, personally appeared A. C. King, who being duly sworn, deposes and says that the facts stated in the foregoing petition to surrender the charter of the Panama Coca-Cola Bottling Company, are true.

A. C. KING.

Sworn to and subscribed before me, this 28th day of May, 1913.

(Seal) W. P. FELKER,
Notary Public Fulton County, Ga.

My commission expires October 21st, 1916.

The foregoing petition of Panama Coca-Cola Bottling Company, to surrender charter, read and considered. Let such petition be filed with the clerk of this court, and a copy thereof and of this order be published once a week for four weeks in the newspapers wherein the Sheriff's Sales in and for Fulton County are published, and let the petitioner and any and all parties interested therein show cause, if any there be, why said petition should not be granted, before the Judge of the Superior Court of Fulton County, sitting in the Motion Division, on the 7th day of June, 1913, at which time said matter will be considered and passed upon.

(Signed) J. T. PENDLETON, J. F. C. A. C.

May 29, 1913.

As clerk of the Superior Court of Fulton County, I hereby certify that the above and foregoing is a full, true and correct copy of the application of the Panama Coca-Cola Bottling Company to surrender its charter, and the order thereon, as the same appears of file in this office. This 29th day of May, 1913.

The table was placed in the dining room and beautifully decorated with pink sweet peas, a great basket of the lovely flowers in the center of the table about which were placed silver candlesticks burning pink tapers tipped with rose colored shades. The minor details were in the same ros etints and the place cards weer hand painted in pink sweet peas.

Miss Rawson was a charming hostess wearing a gown of pink flowered crepe and a leghorn hat trimmed with pink roses.

Mrs. Hopkins wore a becoming suit of white matelasse the little coat opening over a chiffon blouse with touches of pale pink. Her white hat was trimmed with a white goorah plume.

To Miss McCarty

Miss Helen Jones was hostess at tea Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Piedmont Driving club, in compliment to Miss Allgnon McCarty, who has recently returned from Europe.

Tea was served in the pink room, from a prettily appointed tea table, having for its centerpiece a French basket filled with pink sweet peas.

Miss Margaret Buckner, of Roanoke, Va., was an attractive guest of the occasion having arrived Thursday morning to be the guest of Miss Jones for several weeks.

Miss Jones' guests included Miss McCarty, Miss Margaret Buckner, of Roanoke, Va., Miss Annie Laurie Robinson, Miss Aurelia Sharp, Miss Clifford Weeks, Miss Nellie Kiser Stewart, Miss Laura Lee Cooney, Miss Laura Cowles, Miss Nancy Prince, Miss Laura Ansley, and Miss Harriet Cole.

Bridge Party to Visitors

Miss Ferol Humphries was hostess at the second in the series of bridge parties at which she is entertaining Thursday afternoon at her home on Peachtree circle, Miss Mary Osborne and Miss Jessie Dixon, of Savannah, being the guests of honor.

The prize for top score was silk stockings and the consolation was correspondence cards, and the guests of honor were each presented a lace handkerchief.

Sixteen friends were the guests of the occasion.

Bridge Tea

Mrs. Carlton McKinney was hostess at a bridge tea Thursday afternoon.

The rooms where the card tables were placed were bright with flowers, sweet peas and Paul Neron roses prevailing in the decorations.

Auction bridge was played and there were attractive souvenirs for top score and consolation. At the close of the game the players were joined by a number of friends for tea.

Mrs. McKinney's guests included Mrs. Irving Gresham, Mrs. Coleman Hodge, Mrs. Bun Wylie, Mrs. Tom Janes, Mrs. W. D. Davidson, Mrs. Alfred Harbour, Mrs. Slocum Ball, Mrs. Wylie Jones, Mrs. Clifford Henderson, Mrs. Frank Earl Markel, Mrs. R. B. A GOWN WITH NEW TOUCHES

This sketch shows accordion pleating used in a new kind of way. It is put on as a tunic over a plain skirt with an upstanding ruffle above the belt. This latter feature has been appearing on many of the smart gowns since April and it is another one of those fashions which were first refused and then accepted. The gown beneath it is of copper pongee with its loose blouse trimmed with a neck ruffle of cream muslin and lower sleeves of tan crepe to match the tunic.

WEDDINGS

MacIntyre-Ripley

The wedding of Miss Louise Ripley and Mr. Daniel Irwin MacIntyre, Jr., took place Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Ripley, on West Peachtree street, Rev. W. E. Hill officiating.

The house was beautifully decorated, many palms and flowers being used. In the living room, where the ceremony was performed, a pyramid of palms formed a dense background for the bridal party, festoons of bamboo curtained the windows and the doorways and in the corners palms and ferns were clustered. Ascension lilies and white sweet peas were massed on the mantels.

Miss Laura Ripley was her sister's maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Frances Ansley, Miss Sina White and Miss Julia MacIntyre.

Mr. Remer MacIntyre, of Thomasville, was best man, and the grooms men were Mr. Marion Swanson, Mr. E. V. Carter, Jr., and Mr. Cherry Emerson.

Young Misses Elizabeth Owens and Margaret MacIntyre were ribbon bearers and Frances Peabody was train-bearer.

The bride, who entered on the arm of her father, wore a lively gown of white charmeuse veiled with chiffon draperies and trimmed with Princess lace. Her veil was of tulle and her flowers were brides roses and valley lilies.

After the wedding Mr. and Mrs. MacIntyre left for an extended trip. On their return they will be at home in the Corinthian.

Williams-Cook

The wedding of Miss Fannie Grier Cook and Mr. Frank Graham Williams was a beautiful event of Wednesday evening, taking place at 8:30 at St. Mark's church.

Palms and ferns decorated the chancel and southern smilax was effectively used in the decoration of the church.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, Dr. Joseph S. Cook, and was lovely in her wedding gown of white satin charmeuse, the corsage was veiled with point lace, her tulle veil was caught to her hair with a spray of orange blossoms, and her bouquet was a shower of lilies of the valley.

Miss Marguerite Bratton was maid of honor and wore a gown of white lingerie and carried a large bouquet of white sweet peas.

Miss Fannie Turner and Miss Amelia Whittaker were bridesmaids and wore white lingerie gowns and carried pink sweet peas.

Mr. Mark Williams, Pennsylvania, was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Joseph Cook, Jr., of Chirago, and Mr. Henry Morderal.

Dr. A. M. Hughlett performde the ceremony and Miss Eda Bartholomew played the wedding march.

After a short trip, Mr. and Mrs. Williams will be at home at their bungalow, which has been recently completed on West Tenth street.

Hight-Nickerson

A marriage of cordial interest to Athenians and friends throughout the state was a social event this morning at 7 o'clock, when the lovely Miss Irene Nickerson and Mr. Gordon Hight, of Rome, took their nuptial vows in the presence of family and a few close friends at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Nickerson, on Hill street. The beautiful and impressive ceremony was performed by Rev. Troy Beatty.

The house decorations were characterized by an elegant simplicity, white roses and cultivated daisies being used with a touch of green in the drawing room.

The dining room, where a lovely breakfast followed the ceremony, was in white and green; also white carnations being the flowers used.

The central table, around which smaller tables were grouped, was adorned with a colonial basket of carnations with silver candlesticks holding the waxen tapers.

The elegant gown was of white crepe veiled with handsome chantilly lace—a family heirloom. The soft folds were caught with bunches of orange blossoms. The corsage was adorned with seed pearls and orange blossoms. Her flowers were bride's roses, and her only jewel was the groom's gift—a diamond La Valliere.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She entered the drawing room with Miss Addie Wright, of Rome, who wore a white lingerie gown and carried white snap dragons.

The groom was attended by Mr. Louis Wright, of Rome.

Mr. and Mrs. Hight left immediately after the ceremony in their touring car for their wedding trip.

Mrs. Hight presented Misses Aurelia O'Farrell, Susie Davison, Alice Keene Briggs and Addie Wright with her photo framed in silver with monogram and date of wedding—a group of girls that were to have been her attendants, had not the wedding plans been changed.—Athens Banner.

Jones-Dixon

The wedding of Miss Frances Bostick Dixon and Mr. Benjamin M. Jones, of Wilmington, N. C., was a beautiful event of Wednesday evening, taking place at 8:30, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Mary D. Dixon.

Palms and ferns formed the decoration of the drawing room, and tall graceful ascension lilies and pale pink Killarney roses lent fragrance and beauty to the scene. The ceremony was performed before an improvised altar of palms into which were caught many snowy magnolia blossoms which gleamed whitely in contrast to the dark green of the palms and growing plants.

The young bride made a lovely picture in her wedding gown of lustrous white charmeuse satin, rare lace was introduced upon the corsage and was inset in panels in the skirt. The veil was caught to the hair with a spray of lilies of the valley, and fell in graceful folds to the edge of the long court train, and she carried a bouquet of brides roses, showered with lilies of the valley.

Miss Ruth Dixon was maid of honor and was costumed in pink charmeuse, the graceful tunic of pink chiffon was edged with crystal and her flowers were ponk roses.

The wedding was followed by a small reception to which were entertained the wedding party and intimate friends.

In the dining room a French basket holding an artistic arrangement of pink roses rested on a cluny lace cover over pink satin, streamers of pink tulle were caught from the chandeliers and fastened to the corners of the table with clusters of pink rose buds, slender pink tapers burned under rose and crystal shades and ices and bon bons continued the rose suggestion.

Mrs. Dixon was costumed in white embroidered crepe draped over white charmeuse, a corsage of violets and lilies of the valley lending a pretty finish to the gown.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Jones left for an extended wedding trip and after spending some time in New York will be at home after the first of July in Wilmington, N. C.

AMERICAN FASHIONS

By Lillian Young.

The materials with a crinkly or rough surface are in high favor this season, and none is more popular than ratine. It comes in varied weights and weaves and can be applied to almost any design. The heavier, pebble-finished quality is most adaptable to tailored suits, and for this purpose is being widely used.

Fawn-colored ratine is used for the suit in today's sketch, which is typical of all that is new and smart. The coats, cut off at or above the waist line in front and around the sides, with a coat tail only in black, are the latest development of the cutaway. The coat of this suit is so fastened that the lower line arches up from the sides above the normal waist line, displaying some contrasting color in the underskirt, which fastens on one side. The fronts of the jacket cross diagonally, fastening on the left side with three embroidered buttons and loops. Buttons trim the opposite side in like manner, and each row heads the section of material that forms the square coat tail in back. The long, plain sleeves are set into dropped stitching. A pointed collar and cuff set of white ratine relieves the plainness of neck and sleeves.

The skirt is in two sections. The straight, plain, lower one, which should be attached to a thin upper lining, and the pouched tunic reaching almost to the knees. The latter is mounted at the waist with a scant line of gathers and the lower edge is turned under and gathered to the lining. A noticeably attractive feature is found in the arrangement of the one broad sash, and that is hung from over the girdle. This is laid in plaits and caught to the skirt at its lower edge with three buttons like those which trim the coat. The material of the tunic skirt is draped up a trifle under the sash end, but otherwise the straight line of the tunic is unbroken around its lower edge. It is advisable to arrange the placket fastening under the sash end.

Blouses of the soft lingerie variety are most suited to wear with such a suit. There are lovely ones of crepe de chine, with finely plaited neck and sleeve ruffles and trimmed with close rows of tiny Dresden buttons. A blouse to match which would look exceedingly well may be developed in fawn-colored marquisette, with plaited ruffles of self-material and tiny embroidered buttons down the front and along the sleeves.

Patrick Quinn Is Dead

(By Associated Press.)

NEWARK, N. J., June 12.—Patrick T. Quinn, an authority on agriculture, who was credited with having introduced the American cranberry into England, died yesterday at his home here, aged seventy-five years. Quinn at various times held offices as secretary of the State Agricultural society, the state board of agriculture and the state centennial commission.

Colonial Dames to Preserve Old Fort

The Colonial Dames, an organization composed of women who can trace their lineage back to the days of the colonies, and even further, will present to the next legislature, through their representative, Congressman Charles G. Edwards, and Representative-elect, Pleasant A. Stovall, a petition for the erection of a sea-well fifteen hundred feet long, to be built by the government, to preserve the old fort at Frederika, which stands at the mouth of the Altamaha River, on St. Simons island.

Several years ago a bill was drafted, passed and accepted by the rivers and harbors committee, but was stricken out by the engineers as being outside their scope of authority.

The proposed bill will be to pledge Georgia to an appropriation of five thousand dollars, the bill to be looked after by Mr. Stovall, and to ask congress through Mr. Edwards to give the additional $5,000 which will make the required amount to further the work, and preserve the old fort from the encroachment of the tidal waters at that point.

The Dames who have been interesting their representatives in their petition are: Mrs. William L. Wilson, president of the Georgia Colonial Dames; Mrs. D. Watson Winn of St. Simons, Ga.; Mrs. W. G. Charlton, of Savannah; Mrs. Jennie Johnson, of Savannah, and Mrs. Glover, of Marietta.

The society is also planning to secure the forty acres surrounding the old Fort Ann Barracks, which they will make into a state park.

Recently the Colonial Dames have planted a beautiful white marble monument on the old battle field of Bloody Marsh, which is inscribed with appropriate inscriptions. At the unveiling ceremonies, a brief story was recounted of that memorable fight when General James Oglethorpe, who founded Georgia, with a handful of soldiers overcame and killed six thousand Spanish troops in one of the most notable engagements in early southern history.—Augusta Herald.

What Anne Rittenhouse Says

AT the beginning of each hot weather season women wonder just how far wash crash will take the place of linen for separate skirts. The latter is always with us, and its rival so far has been cotton duck, but when cotton toweling came into fashion it had a wide following, which has grown each year.

There were some who said that it could not last, for linen had proved satisfactory for a century and there was no reason why it should be found wanting now. It was prophesied that it would not last but one summer, but the same was said of ratine and velours, and yet the factories have turned out more of these fabrics each year and there was scarcely a dozen yards seen of smooth cloth during the winter.

Whether cotton crash will entirely take the place of linen and cotton duck is hard to tell so early in the year, but one certainly sees a vast number of the crash skirts as well as gowns and suits. Women like this fabric because it does not easily wrinkle and does not seem to soil as easily as the smooth linen surface. It also launders better, for one does not have to be especially careful to press each inch of it exactly right; and in these days of narrow skirts this matter of laundering becomes important.

Crash is less expensive than linen, for even the shops sell a good skirt of it for $5, where they ask $8 and $10 for a skirt of French linen. The main reason for wearing them, however, is that it keeps smooth as long as it is worn; keeps smooth because it is never smooth, which only means that it remains wearable and does not show where one bends the knee.

It is still the fashion to wear white skirts with white blouses, although there has been some effort to introduce tan-colored silk as a substitute. There was once a fashion, an inartistic one, of wearing white blouses with dark skirts, which cut the figure in two, destroyed its lines and made the waist prominent; this was said to be done for economy's sake because dark skirts did not soil as quickly as white ones, but it faded slowly out of view as a fashion, and is generally recognized today as quite the wrong thing to do.

The Making of Wash Skirts.

IT WILL, probably, be many years, if ever, before women disregard the white skirt and separate blouse as the uniform for hot weather. One-piece frocks may take the place of this combination to some extent, but as long as American women live in the open during July and August, just so long will they find this kind of dress comfortable, suitable and agreeable. The folk of other nations smile at it a good deal and call it the American summer uniform, but despite criticism it has remained throughout the season as an acceptable way to dress.

In the city it is expensive; in the country or at any summer resort it is inexpensive and therefore popular. If the skirt is made short enough it lasts much longer than when it touches the tops of the pumps and gathers dirt to itself.

The same kind of pattern used for cloth skirts is used for the white wash skirt. There is a seam down each side, but none down the back; and the fastening is in front with buttons or clamps, the former preferred.

The new fashion of gathering a skirt across the back of the waist line is adopted in these soft crash garments, but there are not many figures sufficiently slim to wear it; if one dislikes the severe plainness that goes across the spine then a dozen or more pin tucks can be run from waist to end of corset; these break the plainness and accentuate the length of line from neck down.

The question of the belt is an easy one to answer this season; it is not used. There are wagon belts, especially small waists who still delight in the tight band of watered silk belting which goes about the waist and is finished with a buckle in front, but this belongs so definitely to a day that is past that few women care to use it, even when by so doing they can show off the smallness and roundness of their waist.

THE EVENING STORY — THEIR LETTERS

(Copyright, 1913, by W. Werner.)

"But, mother," Bartly began placatingly, "I know he'll pay."

The little snappy eyed woman took a pencil from her knob of tightly twisted black hair—not a gray thread in it—and pointedly began to mark goods. "I guess he will," she said drily. "before he gets stuff from me. Trust Jeff Gray for $8 worth of dry goods? Well, not while I'm awake. That ain't how your pa made his money, trusting people. And, I ain't going to risk what he worked so hard to make. The black eyes sparkled with determination. The black head nodded. She jerked her pointed chin up and down for emphasis, and continued marking the big case of notions that the dry-man had just left.

Bartly Elliot flushed. Twice he opened his mouth to speak. Twice he closed it. But finally the words came out with a rush. "Don't I have any say in this store?" he demanded. "Jeff's my friend, darn it, I'd lose the stuff sooner than refuse him. Mother, he's in an awful fix. His wife's cousin is coming for a visit and they want to fix up. He'll have plenty of money in a month when he sells the apple crop."

"He better wait till then," was the reply. "What do I care for the splurge he wants to make before his wife's folks. As for your having a sayso in this store—your pa left it to me. You ain't got no sayso, but what I give you. When you're old enough to have some gumption I'll let you run things but I don't know when that time'll be."

"Then I'll get out," said Bartly. "And go where I can pick out my own shoestrings."

"All right," agreed his mother equably. "I think it would do you good to have to depend on yourself for awhile. And I can run things here just as well without you as with you." Her black eyes snapped.

Bartly got his hat. Halfway between the store and the depot he stopped before a trim, vine covered cottage. A girl, not so pretty as she was fresh and wholesome, came out to meet him.

"I'm going away," he announced gloomily. "I can't stand it any longer. Here I am, nearly twenty-five, and without a cent to call my own. And mother thinks I ought to be glad of my board. I can't stand it, being treated as a child." He went on to tell about the credit refused his friend.

Anne Kayton listened with a dismayed pucker between her two frank blue eyes. "But Bartly, you mustn't go away," said the girl. "Your mother is old. You know she can't get along without you. You mustn't mind her. It's only her way."

"But I can't," he explained, losing his first explosive wrath, and speaking with the careful quiet of one who has thought the matter out. "I can't merely wait for my mother to die. And that's what it means. If this dispute about Jeff was the first it would be different, but it's every day. Yesterday I told her that a certain shade of navy percale doesn't sell. She immediately ordered more. If I decorate the windows one way she immediately orders me to change it to another."

"I'm going away," he announced gloomily.

Anne sighed. She knew that he was not telling the truth. For old Mrs. Elliot was the meanest, most grasping, cantankerous old woman in the small town. Every one had pitied Bartly when his father died and left the four farms and general store to his mother, who would take care of it until Bartly was experienced enough. An elastic will. His mother stretched it with all the power of avarice. She did not even let Bartly go to high school; she kept him at work in the store. The farms she rented. Bartly worked hard for his board and a dollar or two of spending money. Of late she had seemed to grow jealous of him. Perhaps she feared that he would demand too much. She treated Anne very coldly. Yet she was not altogether unlovable. When Bartly was sick she gave him devoted care, and when Anne left some flowers she pitched them out to the alley.

In spite of Anne's entreaties for him to be patient a while longer Bartly left town, took a local twenty miles north, changed cars for a big railroad town thirty miles east and got work as head salesman in a dry goods store there. His salary was not large, but he managed to keep himself and save a few dollars in the year. To his mother he wrote curt formal letters. She answered in the same strain. Nell begged him to come back. But when he questioned her she could not truthfully say that his mother seemed to miss him.

And then Bartly managed to get in the way of a runaway team and acquired a fractured arm and a number of bruises. The doctor's bill absorbed his savings and enforced absence from work put him in debt. After that it was a struggle, even though his employer raised his salary. He laughed a little bitterly to himself over his plan of sending for Anne at the end of that year. When he couldn't keep a surplus out of his money how dare he ask any one to share it with him?

And then his mother wrote—spitefully he guessed—that the new doctor was paying strong attention to Anne. Took her out buggy riding every Sunday afternoon—so she had heard—the astute old lady was careful to add. She herself had never seen the two together.

Bartly crumpled the letter and tried to forget its contents. Of course, he couldn't expect Anne to wait ten or fifteen years while he climbed up to a living wage for two.

The next week Anne wrote. Her letters were becoming as curt and unsatisfactory as his mother's. But in a postscript she told him that his mother looked old and tired, almost sick.

Bartly crumpled that letter. Yet he almost started to pack a clean shirt and collar and run down over Sunday. But he didn't. Anne and his mother would think that he had come back jealously to push his claim against the new doctor, and he didn't want to claim Anne unless she was anxious to be claimed. He would let her alone until she had time to make up her mind.

The dry goods business was very dull that week. Bartly's sales were below par. Twice his employer looked at him, as though regretting that raise of salary.

At the end of the week Bartly got two more letters. His mother advised him grimly to come back right away if he didn't want to lose Anne, adding that a fickle girl wasn't much loss, anyway. Anne said unkindly, "I don't ought to come back and see his mother. She might not live very long. And, anyway, Anne said unsindly, "I don't think you are making so much money that it is worth while staying away for it."

Bartly was more worried about his mother than he would admit, even to himself. But he felt that he could not go and confess failure. His mother might be sick, but she likely would be well enough to taunt him.

Yet in the end he decided to take the train that would land him there after dusk. Then he could slip up to the house, take a look at his mother, and if she didn't seem very sick make the next train back.

He rode to the station thirty miles west, where he could change cars for the home town. As he stepped from the car mother, chipper, lively, looking as though she never had a pain in her life, came from the red-painted depot. Before Bartly could get back out of sight she saw him.

"Coming home?" she asked, with a smile that seemed malicious to Bartly.

"I understood," he replied stiffly, "that you were sick. Since you're not I'll go back."

She caught his arm. The snappy old eyes were not so happy. "But, Anne," she cried, anxiously. "Ain't you going to come back and scare that doctor away?"

"Certainly not. I don't want Anne to feel herself bound to me when it may be years before I can support her." Then his curiosity prevailed. "What are you doing here, mother?"

His mother's sharp face had became gloomy. Now she looked up without her usual fire. "I was coming after you," she said gently. "And there ain't any doctor. Leastwise there is, but I don't think he ever looks at Anne. I just made it up to get you back. And when you didn't come, why, I started to get you. I've put two of the farms and half the store in your name, Bartly. Say, who told you I was sick."

"Anne," said Bartly slowly. Could it be that Anne had not that perfect regard for truth that he had credited her with? He smiled; then he laughed. And his mother joined. "We both took the same road," she chuckled. "Me and Anne. I guess we'll get along together."

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

It was present in the dark, in the night;
It was present in the day, in the light;
All about them everywhere
Every minute fear was there.

It was a dreadful state of affairs. Yes, sir, it certainly was a dreadful state of affairs. All the happiness of the Green Meadows and the Green Forest was gone, and yet here it was the very happiest time of all the year. o'u see, happiness had been driven out by and frightened the littlest people of the fear, such fear as not even Grandfather Frog could remember. It was worse than in the days when Ol' Mistah Buzzard had first come sailing 'round and 'round high up in the blue, blue sky Green Meadows almost to death because they thought him a hawk. But then it was only the littlest people who were frightened. Now almost everybody felt fear in his heart, everybody but Prickly Porky the Porcupine, who isn't afraid of anybody or anything, and Digger the Badger.

What were they afraid of? Why, the fact is they didn't know. No, sir, the little people of the Green Meadows and the Smiling Pool didn't know what they were afraid of. Do you know that that is the very worst kind of fear? It is. It is the kind of fear that never lets go of you for a single minute. When you know what you are afraid of you know what to look out for; but when you are afraid and don't know what it is that you fear then there isn't a single minute when fear isn't with you.

You see it was this way: For several nights a strange voice had been heard. Sometimes it came from the middle of the Green Meadows and sometimes it came from the Green Forest. It was a voice to send little cold shivers up and down the backbone of every one who heard it. Bobby Coon and Reddy Fox Hooty the Owl, and the voice of Dippy the Loon and the voice of a little yelping dog all in one. All the little people who roam about at night had heard it. Bobby Coon and Reddy Fox and Billy Mink and Jerry Muskrat and Prickly Porky and Peter Rabbit and Jumper the Hare and Unc' Billy Possum and Hooty the Owl. And some of the little people who sleep at night had been wakened by it, and had lain awake all the rest of the night shivering and shaking. But no one had seen the owner of the voice but Peter Rabbit, and Peter had a terrible tale to tell of how he had been chased clear to the very edge of the old briar patch in the early morning by a terrible monster who was all teeth that snapped and clashed and had actually pulled some of the hairs out of his tail as he dived into one of his private paths in the old briar patch.

The fact that he was the only one who had seen the stranger made Peter feel very important. You see every one he met wanted to hear about his narrow escape, and so Peter had to tell the story over and over again. Now like a great many story tellers he made the story a little bigger each time he told it. Besides Peter had been so badly frightened that he hadn't seen very clearly anyway, and so the stranger he described was really more what he imagined than what he really saw. But of course the other little meadow and forest people didn't know this, and they had been so frightened anyway by the strange voice in the night that they believed everything they heard.

So fear grew and grew and grew in the Green Forest and on the Green Meadows until no one had any appetite, that is no one but Prickly Porky the Porcupine and Digger the Badger. You see Digger had recognized the strange voice, and he had just grinned and gone about his business just as usual. But Digger lives by himself and is rather grumpy anyway, so no one had thought to ask him what he thought about the stranger of whom such terrible stories were told. So what he knew Digger had kept to himself. Thus fear grew greater and greater on the Green Meadows and in the Green Forest day by day.

LOCAL MINISTERS HELP FERRANTE TO FREEDOM

A petition from th ministers of Sylacuse, N. Y., and from local ministers has resulted in the pardon of Victor W. Ferrante, of Syracuse, a Baptist minister who was sentenced two years ago to ten years in the Atlanta federal prison.

Mr. Ferrante left the prison Wednesday and returned to his home in Syracuse Wednesday night, where his family is at present.

According to local ministers, Ferrante was arrested two years ago in the company of a counterfeiter, and was convicted on circumstantial evidence. The local Baptist ministers conference joined with their brothers in Syracuse in helping Ferrante to gain his pardon

Fine Block Milans---Untrimmed Hats $1.45

This is the season when the white street costume brings out the beautiful contrast of the all black hat.

Fifth ave. has set the fashion and every well-dressed New York woman has already added to her summer wardrobe the inevitable black hat.

Of Milan or Hemp with tulle or ribbon trimming, and maybe an aigrette or ostrich quill completes the airy summer effect.

The simplicity of the finished hat makes it possible for a woman to use her own ingenuity and a little skill at needlework, and she has a handsome hat of $25 effect at extremely small cost.

They are new Hats. This week, we bought of a well known Manufacturer every black straw hat in his stock, at much less than half-price. They are all fine hats, Milans and Hemps, medium and small shapes. They are worth $8, $10 and up to $16.50.

You may choose yours here tomorrow at

TERRIBLE AGONIES WORSE MISERY

Advices From Durant's Neck Tell of Mrs. Bazemore's Trying Ordeal, and Her Condition at Present

Durant's Neck, N. C.—Mrs. Emma Bazemore, of this place, says: "Words fail to express my appreciation and gratitude for the benefit I received from Cardui, the woman's tonic. I suffered agonies from womanly troubles. I tried different doctors, but they didn't help. The last one I went to said I needed an operation, so I agreed to it, and bore those terrible pains. I felt better, but only for a short time, and soon the misery was worse than ever before. I began to use Cardui, and it made me feel entirely different. Now I am the picture of health, weighing 170 pounds. Before I started the treatment, I could not do my housework. Now I can do my work, and I feel so much better."

Cardui, the woman's tonic, acting in its gentle, healing way, upon the womanly organs, helps to restore your natural vigor, and to build up the womanly constitution.

If you are tired, worn-out, weak, nervous, or suffer from any of the ailments peculiar to women, do what over a million other women have done—try Cardui. It cannot do you harm, and is almost sure to help you. Just as it has them. Begin taking Cardui today.

Your druggist sells it.

Y. W. C. A. DELEGATES HAVE FUN AT ASHEVILLE

ASHEVILLE, N. C., June 12.—The six hundred young women attending the Y. W. C. A. conference at Blavk mountain indulged in a regular carnival of sports and tableaux today. Delegates from every school represented at the conference attired in fanciful costumes, held a great parade and later posed for a panoramic photograph. Beautiful scenic tableaux were arranged, and the crowning events of the afternoon was a representation of the New Orleans Mardi Gras, with a carnival on the campus. The conference ends next Monday.

The Rapid Spread of Advertising News

Many of the household articles in daily use in our homes, many of the perfected ideas in wearing apparel, and much of the advanced thought in living today would not now be benefiting humanity were it not for the advertising in newspapers like THE JOURNAL.

As a concrete example much to the point, a prominent manufacturer and distributor of a foot-form shoe for children—a shoe of special construction and down-to-the-date features—recently advertised in twenty of the principal cities east of the Mississippi river for a period of four weeks.

At the end of that time he experienced such a demand for this shoe that he has been unable to fill his orders on time for many weeks.

The public who read his advertisements in an incredibly short time learned, to its profit, about something that filled a real need, and responded by practically doubling the manufacturer's business.

By this systematic series of advertisements the producer, the retailer and the consumer were helped. This is just one case. There are hundreds like it.

Smith's Drive Copped Game For Atlanta

Price and Musser Both Pitched Good Ball—Welchonce and Smith Hit Ball Hard, —Last With Barons

Atlanta and Birmingham broke even Wednesday in their double battle on the Slagville diamond. Birmingham got the first one 4 to 2, but the Crackers came strong in the second and copped it, 2 to 1. Both games were won by mighty swats. In the first a heavy hit by Walter Mayer's bat drove across the winning run while in the second after the game had gone into extra innings Waliop Smith got hungry and slapped the ball to the right field and scored Bailey. Both games were pitchers' battles and were interesting from the word go. In the first, Prough and Musser were pitted against each other, while Price and Thompson did the twirling for the teams in the second battle.

Prough let the Atlanta team down with three hits in the first game while the Barons were able to get only five off of Musser. It was merely a timely hit that defeated the Atlanta pitcher. The collegian in the second game was hit for eight swats, while Price gave up only five scattered hits. The games were good from the start to the finish and the Baron fans were well aware of the fact that Bill Smith has got some ball team and that with just another even start that he is going to get in just a few days, he will be one of the strong contenders for the bunting.

Dream Is Winner Of Boating Race

HAMILTON, Bermuda, June 12.—According to unofficial computations, the Dream, the smallest of the contestants, owned by Charles L. Lazen, of the Yachtsmen's club, is winner of the motor boat race from Philadelphia to Bermuda; the Barbara II is second and the Toscam third.

The Dream crossed the line at 4:55 last evening, 13 hours, 29 minutes and 40 seconds after the arrival of the Barbara II, the scratch boat, and three hours, nine minutes and 56 seconds to spare.

NEW HURLERS WILL BATTLE

Conzelman on Slab for Atlanta and Grimes for the Lookouts

CHATTANOOGA, June 12.—Joe Conzelman, for Atlanta and Grimes for Chattanooga, will be the rival hurlers in the opening game between Atlanta and Chattanooga here Thursday afternoon. Both are new men and all are deeply interested in just what they will do.

The Atlanta club has had great success this season in the games with the Lookouts, winning seven and losing one, and Manager Elberfeld is out to break up this easy thing by copping the series. Manager Smith, on the other hand, is confident of holding his rabbit's foot.

Grimes has not yet hurled a game in the Southern league and all the Lookout fans are deeply interested in what he will do. Conzelman pitched part of a game against the Lookouts in Atlanta last week and did unusually well. He is expected to repeat.

Extra Innings Are Released

There were two "side releases" in baseball circles Wednesday. One was in the big show and the other one was in the minors, but that is so much the better, it goes to show the international brotherhood of all baseball fans. The fan in the Hawaiian Islands want the same kind of game that the man in Boston wants when he is betting on the Champs. Not too much regular stuff.

All managers know this and, therefore, being wise managers, they release a little extra inning stuff at times. That is when the whole team is feeling well and the fans are tired of the scores being the same old stereotyped kind with only nine innings and maybe a batting rally in the ninth to encourage the fans to call again next day in the hope of being there when something big breaks. Picture if you can the joy of being a fan in a town where they never play anything, but nine inning games with nothing but win or lose. The home team has to have some jump to it to draw enthusiastic crowds, and knowing this, the managers (they are all considerate (fellows) let aloose a little something. In other words, they spend something else besides the evening.

Wednesday the fans in the good old town of Boston wanted something good and the manager let out a fifteen-inning game. The game was with Cleveland, and to climax the affair the Cleveland team won in the fifteen by having a big batting rally which netted one run. The Boston fans were highly pleased that their team should fight for nearly three hours for just one small game and when they knew that the pennant was theirs. Good business.

Down in the Appalachian Knoxville and Middlesboro pulled off a seventeen-inning stunt with a small score attached, the final count being 3 to 2 in favor of Knoxville. Another good piece of head work. The fans want something unusual and lucky the manager that has not head work enough to give it to them.

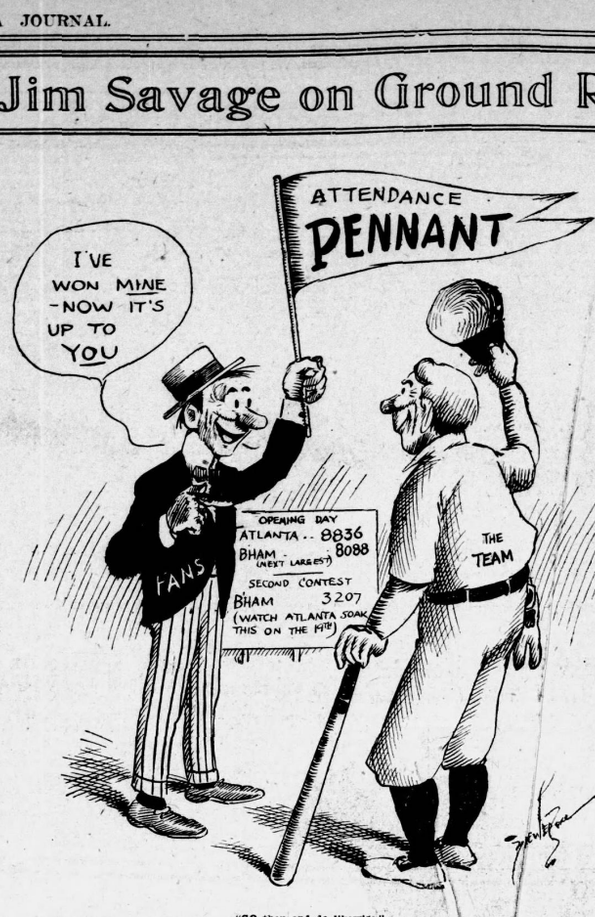
Athletic Coaching to Be Taught at Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 12.—Courses in coaching football, baseball, basketball and track athletics will be given at Harvard university next year, if William Garcelon, graduate treasurer treasurer of Harvard athletics, can get financial assistance.

Mr. Garcelon believes that graduates who accept positions as teachers should be able to coach high school and preparatory teams.

More to Nashville

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 12.—It was announced last night that Pitcher Forrest More, of Chattanooga, had been purchased by the Nashville club. Pitcher McManus, secured from Cincinnati, will be released by Manager Schwartz to make room for the new member. More returned to Chattanooga with the team last night but will join Nashville in Birmingham this week.



"GO thou and do likewise."

Indian Always Wiling to Go to Relief of Hurler in Distress

Chief Albert Bender, of the Philadelphia Americans, is like Tennyson's little brook, he threatens to go on forever and all the time is getting better. For three or four years past the wise ones have had Bender all in and out, yet right now he is pitching just about as classier a game as any hurler working under the American league rules.

Bender joined the Athletics back in 1903 and since that time he has hurled in 161 victories and but 91 defeats, which gives him an average which looks something like .640. In all those years but two seasons. In 1904 his figures he has had an average below .500 in which he won 8 and lost 16 games, and in 1908 he had eight wins and nine losses. His best mark was made in 1910, when he won twenty-three and lost but five.

Bender has been largely instrumental in the winning of pennants for the Athletics in 1909, 10 and 1911. In 1905 the Indian went like a house afire. While his average for the season was not as high as at other times he probably pitched his m ost sensational ball. It was during this campaign that he got away with a no-hit, no-run game against the Cleveland club. Incidentally he was the only hurler on the Mack pay roll to take a game from the New York Giants in the play for the world's championship.

Towards the last of the 1912 season Bender got in bad and did not hurl the class of ball he was capable of turning out. This caused him to think a bit, and right now he is hurling just as good as ever. He is not only pitching grand ball each time he is sent out to start a game but as a relief pitcher of the sensation of the league. Many times he has been sent in to check a batting rally started against one of Mack's young hurlers and each time he has been successful. Bender was a visitor to Atlanta during the past winter and made a big hit with the true sports of this city. Each and every one is pulling for him to get in another big championship and right now it looks as if such will be the case.

To date this year Bender has worked 62 2-3 rounds and has allowed 17 runs and 57 hits, and has given but 14 bases on balls. He has been used as relief hurler just seven times. The big boy was a bit late in getting under full steam but since April 24 he has not lost a battle, winning six in a row. Besides rescuing many more than one.

NO CHANCE FOR BARONS

Atlanta Can Turn Out More Fans on Rainy Day Than Birmingham Can Under Any Conditions

Just how much will Atlanta beat Birmingham's pennant raising attendance of 3,207 when Birmingham is here for attendance day on June 19? There is not the least doubt but that the mark will be trimmed, the only question being as to whether it will be doubled or trebled.

When it was announced that Birmingham and Atlanta had planned a contest to see whether Birmingham could turn out more fans on pennant raising day than Atlanta would show on the day of the attendance trophy is awarded the Crackers, a big laugh went up over in Slagtown. It was hinted that there was no question but that the Barons would win out and it was suggested that the crowd would be even larger than the 8,836 who were on hand to witness the opening day game in Atlanta. Well, as it happened there were just 3,207 fans who paid their way past the turnstiles at Rickwood field.

Here in Atlanta we call that a decidely small crowd. Time after time on Saturday there are more fans in the Ponce de Leon bleachers than were shown in the entire Birmingham stands when the pennant was pulled to its lofty summit. This is just on the average Saturday, while if there was any such celebration as raising a pennant the outfield would be roped off days in advance and the fans urged to come early in case they wanted to get past the turnstiles.

It seems funny to keep comparing Atlanta and Birmingham when baseball is the topic, but you know the Barons have to be waked up every once in a while or they might forget they are in the Southern league. As for Atlanta, there is no question as to where the stands in the Southern league when attendance figures are considered.

HOW CLUBS PLAY TODAY

MOBILE, Ala., June 12.—Rube Kisinger, who has almost invariably been a puzzle to the Mobile batsmen will be the mound for Memphis in the last game of the present series with Mobile today with Snell behind the bat. Bradley Hogg is scheduled to pitch for Mobile with Schmidt doing the receiving. The weather is clear and several degrees warmer than yesterday.

NEW ORLEANS, June 12.—Southpaw Evans will do the pitching for New Orleans in the final game of the series with Montgomery, according to announcement of Manager Frank E. Brown, who started yesterday's game for the visitors, will probably be the Montgomery twirler. The weather is clear and pleasant.

How Cobb Batted

Tyrus Raymond is going after that scribe that said he was a speed hitter, and not a man that could ram the ball to the outer gardens. Within the past few days he has made a specialty of poling the sphere to the uttermost parts of the field. Yesterday in the game with Washington he had against the ball for a home run with one man on. This little favor helped toward the Tigers defeating the Senators 11 to 0. However it was all that he did and as a result of being up four times and getting only one hit his average took a drop. He is waiting for the weather to get back in normal condition, before he releases anything in the heavyweight line. He will, however, be hitting hard enough to keep his name on the top of the roll. His figures for the year so far are:

Boxers Ready To Go Strong Friday Night

Both White and Savage Have Trained Hard for the Big Match and Should Furnish Bit of Real Sport

A couple of the finest specimens of heavyweight manhood that ever stepped into a ring in Dixie will unlimber punches at the Atlanta auditorium-armory Friday night. Two New York thoroughbreds disgorged Wednesday two husky specimens. Jim Savage rolled in over the Southern, looking bigger than when he trimmed Al Kubiak—on which occasion he was considerably husky, all right. About the same time a Seaboard train disgorged a large, square man, with a mouth like a cable slot and shoulders as broad as the Pullman he was vacating. This was "Sailor White."

Friday night they will go ten rounds at the auditorium-armory, to a verdict that Referee Lou Castro will render. And the winner will loom decidedly large on the white hope horizon—large enough to get almost any battle he wants.

Both men are whales. Sailor White was always big—a husky infant, a loose-jointed, husky boy, and now a huge broth of a man. He walks with a slight stoop and his full size does not show at a glance. But under the scrutiny of the measuring tape his wonderful physique is disclosed. He is over six feet tall, weighs a few pounds over 200, has a 40-inch chest, 16 1-2-inch biceps, a 12-inch forearm, a 7 1-4-inch wrist and a two-mule-kick punch. White got his muscle naturally. But it was trained for him in the navy. He entered when only a kid, in the hope that there he could learn to scrap. He had opened to catch a pound of sand and he got only a few battles, but he was developed and hardened by the wonderful training that falls to the lot of all men on shipboard. Since he has been ashore he has been scrapping steadily. He fell under the care of Jim Stewart early in his Queensberry career and from that time on he was given a chance. He was always willing. So he beat it over to the factory, slipped on a pair of gloves and mopped away. The former football player weighed more than 250 pounds and White had never a chance. As often as he got up the football man knocked him down. This kept on for several minutes. By that time White was chopped to ribbons. But he kept right on coming. Courage and slugging away as best he could.

Tennis Stars Soon to Sail

NEW YORK, June 12.—Maurice E. McLoughlin, R. Norris Williams and Harold H. Hackett, leading up the American tennis trio which defended the Australasians here in the Davis cup preliminaries, were booked as passengers on the steamer Baltic, sailing for England today, hoping to bring back the international trophy.

The next step toward this goal will be in a match with the Germans, who recently defeated the French players, then successful with the winners of the South African matches at Orc., and Seattle.

The final round probably will not be reached until July 18, and the challenge round at Wimbledon is scheduled for July 25 to 28. Admirers of the American trio feel confident that they will emerge from the preliminaries as the challengers.

By leaving for England today, the players will have opportunity for practice and exchange further honors in the all-England championship tournament on June 23, in which Wallace Johnson, the former intercollegiate champion, is also an entrant.

Sullivan Is Leader At Traveling Game

NEW YORK, June 14.—James E. Sullivan, secretary of the Amateur Athletic union, has traveled more than 225,000 miles. He has been across the ocean five times and has made three trips across the continent to San Francisco-Seattle, Portland, Ore., and Seattle. His other trips include about twenty-five visits to St. Louis, twenty to Canada, a dozen to Philadelphia, three to Boston and dozens to Baltimore, Cleveland, Milwaukee, New Haven, Albany, Buffalo, Washington and other cities nearer to New York City.

NEW PARK HAS HELPED PUT DODGERS IN RACE

NEW YORK, June 12.—Just look what a new park has done for the Brooklyn baseball team. It has put new life in the Dodgers, has taken the snap out of opposing teams and put Charles Holliday Ebbetts in the big business class. Ebbetts was certainly a good fairy to his team and to himself when he built the new concrete plant across the river. That park he held responsible in some strange unknown way for the wonders that the Brooklyn team has been performing.

By diligently sweeping away the cobwebs of the past, some of the oldest inhabitants may remember that at this stage of the baseball league race one year ago the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Boston Braves were flirting with and had a very close acquaintance with last place. The Braves being conservative souls, have not seen fit to change their ways, but what the Dodgers have done in the way of jockeying for position during the early weeks of the present season's scramble has brought delirious joy to the heart of Good Fairy Ebbetts, and caused all other team managers and owners to smash their teeth while awake and see things while asleep.

The Dodgers have swore that they have built up an air-tight defense. With Jake Daubert at first, Cutshaw at second, Fisher at shortstop and Red Smith at third, team play has been perfected. Cutshaw covers a world of ground at second and in that immediate vicinity. In the outfield the Dodgers have a real outfield in Stengel, who is establishing a record as a fence-buster this season. Wheat has no then batting up to his usual standard. With that going, naturally there will be another argument why the Dodgers should keep going. Hummel completes a much better average outfield according to his work this season.

One of the failings of the Dodgers at one time was their failure to hit behind Nap Rucker. But Rucker won three of his first six games this season. One of the three losses was the thirteen-inning duel with Old Master Matty. Rucker had been going good after only a fair start, and Ragon has been pitching in his usual form. With the team going, naturally there will be another argument why the Dodgers should keep going. Hummel completes a much better average outfield according to his work this season.

One of the failings of the Dodgers at one time was their failure to hit behind Nap Rucker. But Rucker won three of his first six games this season. One of the three losses was the thirteen-inning duel with Old Master Matty. Rucker had been going good after only a fair start, and Ragon has been pitching in his usual form. Allen is fast developing into a star left-hander and, though he lost some of his early starts, he ought to spin along nicely in hot weather. Stack and Curtis are in pretty fair shape, and Yingling, Hall and Wagner look really better than they have been. Wagner came from New Orleans with a reputation as good as that carted in by Demaree with the Giants. Behind the bat is Otto Miller, who ranks with the best. Then there is Erwin, who has caught the new Dodger spirit and is coming along. All ain all, the bunch from across the bridge look pretty good. Washington did it after getting a new ball park—that is, they jumped from humble ones to slashing, fighting pennant contenders almost over night, to to repeat. "Why not Brooklyn?"

HOW GAMES WERE WON

Cleveland and Boston did battle yesterday, fifteen innings, Cleveland finally winning in the fifteenth when Olson with the bases full in the final inning batted. Then a batting rally was started in which Long, Lajoie and Joe Jackson figured in and the other runs were put across, four being scored in the last try. The game was replete with brilliant playing, Cleveland getting an early lead, but Boston by hard hitting crawled to an even standing in the sixth. Engle was the star batsman of the game, getting four hits out of seven times up.

A batting rally in the tenth gave New York the game with Chicago Wednesday by the score of 3 to 2. Fromme, the old Chicago pitcher, but who is now with New York, held his former teammates down to five hits, only two of them being bunched for two runs. Fletcher, for New York, got three hits out of four times up.

The pitching of Tyler was the feature of the St. Louis-Boston game on Wednesday. He was effective in all but two innings. Louis got a run in each the first and the second and then went hitless until the eighth, when three singles and a sacrifice fly netted two runs. The final score was 5 to 3 in favor of Boston. O'Leary, the shortstop for the St. Louis team, got three hits out of four times up, he being the brilliant batting star of the game.

Pittsburg got themselves together Wednesday and hammered three Brooklyn pitchers for eighteen hits, winning the game easily by the score of 11 to 3. The game was featured by the number of double plays that were pulled off, there being a total of five. O'Toole, the big price man, pitched wonderful ball and won his game by the score of 11 to 3. Vlox, for Pittsburg, was the real batting star of the game, getting four hits out of five times up. Carey also hit the ball freely, getting three out of four times up. Catcher Gibson was back in the game for the first time since he broke his ankle in St. Louis over a month ago.

The Cincinnati game Monday had a year.

St. Louis stopped the winning streak of the Mackmen Wednesday by defeating them by the score of 5 to 2. With two men out and two men on, Catcher Sam Agnew poled out a home run and won the game, breaking up a possible stretch for a new record in the number of games won in succession. Philadelphia got five hits while St. Louis got six. The extra one being the homer that won the game.

Detroit was there for revenge Wednesday and easily walloped the Washington team, defeating them by the score of 11 to 0. The Tiger batsmen were feeling good and knocked three pitchers out of the box for a total of fourteen hits, two of which were home runs. With the bases full in the second Crawford hit a homer, and later Cobb hit one with a man on first. In other words, the Washington team was not in the game at all. Busser pitched for Detroit and let the Senators down with five hits.

Chicago evened up things with the Highlanders Wednesday by defeating them 1 to 0 in a very spectacular battle. Russell, a left-hander, was in the box for Chicago, and let the Highlanders down with six scattered hits, while the Chicago boys hit Fisher hard, making eleven hits in eight innings. Mattick and Collins, for Chicago, were the batting stars of the game, getting three hits out of four times at the plate. McKechnie and Weaver made sensational leaping catches, saving the game, when a muff would have lost it. The game was one of the best that has been played on the Polo grounds this whole raft of side release stuff in it and the fans got the benefit of seeing a ball game and a near riot for the same price. Manager Tinker and Second Baseman Knabe got into a word battle and both later on Tinker slid into second and the big mix-up occured. Both men were put off the field. Neither was injured. Cincinnati finally won the game by the score of 3 to 2. Mayer, for Philadelphia, was hit freely and retired in favor of Moore. The Phillies got four hits while the Reds got seven. Manager Tinker getting two of the seven.

PARALLEL CASES.

Hark to the yarn of Diogenes,
Told by the scribes of th' old Greek clan;
Forth he sped from his Tub of Ease,
Raking the scene for an honest man;
Long h searched with a weary soul,
Ever his daily task pursuing,
But echo buzzed with the endless roll—
"Nothing doing."

Hark to the yarn the fight fans mope,
Spieling thus to the weary writer;
"Long we've looked for a good White Hope—
Long we've yearned for a regular fighter;
One with the kick and the inside play,
Mixing it up where the mitts are brewing."
But Echo howls in the same old way—
"Nothing doing."

The Yanks nailed their first home victory on June 7. Paste this in your bonnet for future reference when another club starts after a record in the same mold. It may help you win an argument fifteen or twenty years from now.

"GILDING AGAIN."

In regard to certain disasters which have assailed British arms in certain fields of sportland, Owen Seaman broods about as follows in "Punch:"

Fetters of sloth that hang round and hobble us,
Swiftly the webb is spun;
Scarce have we time, ere the spiders gobble us,
To utter Jack Robinson;
Chief of our shames we have lost our claims
To exact the world at Olympic games;
We are heirs to more to the old Discobolous,
We can neither leap nor run.

Where, oh where, shall we seek asylum?
Where shall we gild again?
Fallen and tarnished deep, the whilom
Coronals! Frank and Dane
Filch from our brows the olive boughs;
Sprinters we have, but they halt like cows,
And when it comes to chucking the pylum—
Ah, stop!—it is too much pain.

Which brings us right into the heart of the Polo ensemble. Judging from the advance dope "the gilding again" is now likely to start at any moment. Unless America can rally swiftly from the impending rut the "whilom coronals" may begin to bloom again with a bit of the bally tarnish rubbed off. It took us twenty-three years to fetch that cup over, and now, just as we are getting accustomed to drinking from its silver-lined depths, here they are about to force us back to the ground again. Ripping rotten luck isn't one-half the phrase.

THE FIVE YEAR SWITCH.

Five years ago Hughey Jennings and Frank Chance were battling for a world's championship. They are still in battle array, but the bulk of the fighting is centered around the exit leading from another port. A number of things can happen in five years, if given the proper impetus from Fate.

Connie Mack may not have an unhittable pitching staff, but neither has the other club when it bumps into Connie's batting order. If Mack's club can hit fine pitching harder than the other club can assault his patched-up array, we see no reason why he should feel discouraged over the outcome. Not forgetting that whenever Mr. Mack requires a touch of artistic work for a round or two he could have two worse men around than Chief Bender and Eddie Plank. We've seen worse staffs than these two unaided.

Mathewson tore off his first five games. And then, apparently at top speed, dropped four of his next six starts. In spite of which McGraw hasn't tossed him in with any trade made to date. Not yet.

We never see the Cleveland club play without thinking of Bill Bradley, Bill Bernhad, Nig Clarke, Harry Bemis and Charley Hickman in the minors; Elmer Flick back on a farm and Addie Joss in possession of his "six-feet-three" of earth. That old man couldn't win a pennant, but it could do everything else pertaining to art of regular baseball."

DEVEREUX MILBURN, DAREDEVIL POLO PLAYER

Stars of Old Meet Georgia

The annual baseball game between the Georgia alumni and university team will take place in Athens on Saturday, which is the one big day during the commencement exercises at the state university. Both teams are already prepared for the conflict and claiming a victory.

Charlie Cox is back of the alumni club and on the team are a number of boys who now reside in Atlanta. None of the bunch have played any ball in some years yet they are in fair enough shape to go out and give the fans all they have in one game even though they won't be able to walk for ten days afterwards. It has been agreed that time can be taken out to give the runner a rest whenever he hits better than a single, thus the alumni boys serving to keep their players in fair shape during the fray.

The university team of 1913 was one of the best ever turned out by the Red and Black and the game with the alumni, which looks to be a most formidable team, promises to be a real ball game. On the alumni club are such players as Charlie Cox, star hurler and infielder; Trammell Scott, a great first baseman; "Whitey" Martin, the blond boy who made the shortstop position famous; Colby, one of the best catchers that ever worked for a college nine, and several others who are well known in the baseball world, including Dozier Lowndes, who has been officially selected as bat boy, peanut vender and valet for the club.

Forfeits Not Yet Decided

The forfeited game claimed by both the Atlanta and Nashville clubs is yet high in the air. President Kavanaugh not having officially decided the protests entered by the rival clubs. He has taken the matter under consideration, and while it begins to look as if he will order the game played over, it is also possible that he will give it to Atlanta.

When in Birmingham the Atlanta directors talked to the high mogul and gained from him just his opinion. President Kavanaugh admitted that while the Atlanta club was technically right, that it was morally wrong, and these may offset each other sufficiently to cause the game to be played over.

There isn't a chance for the Vols to grab the game, unless they do so by scoring more runs in case it is ordered played over. The signed agreement given Billy Smith by President Hirsig, of the Nashville club to the effect that he was willing to the changes suggested by the Atlanta club, makes the matter binding, the only trouble with the arrangement being that President Kavanaugh was not notified of the change as is the law.

ELBERFIELD IS DEFENDED FOR CURSING ON FIELD

The use on the ball field of the very worst imaginable style of profane language should go unnoticed according to the defense the sporting scribe of the Chattanooga Times is now handing out in an attack upon the roast given Manager Kid Elberfeld, of the Chattanooga club, for his conduct here last week. The writer seems to think that Elberfeld should get by with most anything he desires even to the extent of letting out such language as he did here on the day in question.

Immediately after the game when Elberfeld pulled his decidedly rough talk there were numerous complaints lodged with the management of the Atlanta club, all being greatly surprised that any ball player would be able to get away with such language without being put off the field by the umpire. As it happened Elberfeld did the cursing while his back was turned to the stands and it was not noticed by many. This was indeed lucky for the player for had it been distinct to all somebody undoubtedly would have been tossed from the park and probably roughly handled.

One of the worst features of the whole affair was that it occurred on ladies' day and the stands were well filled with the fairer sex. Just whether the Chattanooga scribe would object to his mother or sister sitting in the stands and hearing such talk we do not know but as for the Atlanta fans who attend the games at Ponce de Leon we know they do seriously object and every time a ball player tries to get by with the line of talk handed out by Elberfeld there will certainly be a call.

It is very generally known that the Chattanooga scribe in question is press agent for the Chattanooga club but even at that it is foolish to try to defend a player for deliberately cursing on a ball field. A bigger hit would have been made had he let it be known that the Chattanooga owners did not stand for such tactics but instead he comes out with a defense when to try to get around something of this sort which was heard by many fans is foolishness.

Harry Hooper, of the Boston American league team, is probably the only man in the major leagues who regularly wears glasses when off the field. Using spectacles when off the field has improved the world champion right fielder's batting.

Didn't Award Cup; Rain Was Too Much

COLUMBUS, aG., June 12.—Owing to the continued rainfall yesterday afternoon the exercises incident to the presentation of the Columbus Ledgers' cup to the Savannah club for the best average attendance at the opening of the Sally series, were put off until the coming of the Savannah team to Columbus again, which will be the opening day of the second half of the pennant race. The great automobile parade and other features arranged will be "pulled off" on the date named, so it is announced by Secretary Walton, of the local club.

ERRORS ARE NOT COMMON

Ed Konetchy is setting a terrific pace fielding around his position and if he continues the gait he probably will set a record for first basemen. Playing in every game this year, the Cardinals' bulky initial sacker has an average of .996.

Having 528 chances, Konetchy so far has missed but two, one a muff of a foul and the other a miss of a toss from Huggins in the recent seventeen-inning battle with the Chicago Cubs. Handling many throws from his position and in relaying throws from the outfield Ed hasn't made one wild heave.

The highest average for a first baseman is owned by Frank Chance, who in 1910 compiled a .996 mark for the Cubs, but he only played in 87 games. Dan McGann went .995 for the Giants in 1906, playing in 133 games.

A Close Game.

Possibly the most closely contested game in the Grocers' league on Wednesday was between the Grant Park Elks and The Atlanta Journal teams, the same finally ending 5 to 4 in favor of Grant Park Elks. Simmons, for The Journal, pitched a swell game, striking out a number of the opposing batsmen, including the first three who faced him.

Score by innings:	R.
Grant Park Elks..... 000 110 300—5
Atlanta Journal..... 100 001 011—4

Batteries: Thompson and Hadley; Simmons and Pavloski. Umpire, Parker.

CHANGES IN POLO TEAM

NEW YORK, June 12.—With a three days' interval between the first and second of the international polo matches, the American Polo committee is making no haste about a final decision as to the lineup for the next contest. Harry Payne Whitney, captain of the American four, went yachting yesterday and appeared at the Meadowbrook club with renewed vigor to marshal his forces.

Gossip was well defined to the effect that Louis Stoddard, who took "Monty" Waterbury's place when the latter was injured in the first game, might not after all retain a place in the lineup for Saturday's battle or if he does it will be at No. 1 position with Larry Waterbury at his brother's place at No. 2.

Malcolm Stevenson, however, was picked by many as the probable selection to be placed at back where he has played a good game in practice with Devereaux Milburn at No. 2. It is probable that no definite action will be taken on the matter until tomorrow.

In the British camp it was said that the original proposal to replace Captain Lockett with Lord Wodehouse in the second game had been abandoned, and the challengers would appear Saturday in the same places as in the first match. Both teams were out today for light practice.

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

The Food Proposition---A Solution to Southern Prosperity

A LFALFA, when once planted, the longer it stands the better it gets. Every five weeks, six times during the year, a bountiful crop can be removed from the ground. It is a balanced ration within itself and will maintain work horses, dairy cows, beef cows, hogs, sheep and poultry on this feed alone. They will grow, make a rapid gain, get fat and sleek and ready for the butcher any month in the year. You cannot say this of any other one product on earth. Of course it will be better and can be used to a larger per cent of profit if cotton seed hulls and meal or ensilage is fed along with this feed during the four months of the year, but it is not absolutely essential.

There are but few acres of land in Georgia, if properly limed, planted in peas and then to alfalfa with the seed inoculated but that will grow year after year from six to ten tons per acre. It can be planted for not over $15 per acre; then the cost is ended and there is nothing to do but reap the harvest of $100 to $150 per acre. This will show the farmers of the south the way to prosperity, out of debt, to happiness and plenty. It will solve the labor proposition, will make the city and country alike prosperous, and it will solve the live stock proposition and it alone. We have tried corn and it is a good thing, but too expensive to raise on poor land and worth too much on our open markets when raised on rich land to feed exclusively for twelve months of the year to our live stock. It is too expensive as a feed to depend upon solely, and just so long as it sells at the price it does now we will never feed it to live stock at a profit exclusively. Corn cannot be grown on poor land at a profit as the average yield of Georgia has already proven our yield is too low, but with alfalfa a few years ahead of corn it would soon increase our average yield from at least fifteen to seventy-five bushels per acre. Then we could raise it so cheaply that we could feed it in abundance to hogs and cattle.

If we could only get the Georgia farmers to see this situation as the Ohio farmers have seen it, and get together in this state more than 2,000 alfalfa growers which were brought together in the state of Ohio last week then we would have a country where the value of our farm lands would not be known. If these 3,000 alfalfa growers are so much interested that they could have their work and can all assemble together on Joe Wing's farm at Mechanicsburg, Ohio, and spend two days to gain information to help them grow this crop on land worth from $300 to $1,000 per acre, what are we people thinking of sitting idle and allowing this state of affairs to exist. We are with our cotton money in almost an slavery condition to the people where they buy. They are feeding us with their cattle, hogs and sheep and furnishing us horses raised on alfalfa on their high priced lands. The railroads and commission people are getting their share out of it. There is not an acre in Georgia if properly fixed but that could grow from two to four tons of hay more per acre than it does. You are right at a market that will pay more than twice as much per ton for hay and more for the products had with this than they can ever hope to get. When we have this state of affairs existing and knowing it as we do it is certainly unwise in us to delay a moment longer but grow the feed on our farms and raise our live stock and get out of debt. Mr. White's article in Monday's Constitution is a timely one and as he has said if we had taken up this live stock industry three years ago we would today have been independent and prosperous. It is not too late to do so, and the young man of this country today has the greatest future to make money ahead of him easy than in any section of the world. Plenty feed first on the farm, plenty live stock will follow. Prosperity will then come to us almost before we know it, but it is useless to buy the best live stock or undertake to get the farmers interested in it and growing it until we raise our own feed. Feed in plenty and alfalfa in particular will show this country the way out of debt, and the sooner we take it up just that much quicker will we be on the safe road to prosperity.

Alfalfa will do the work for us. Yours very truly,

QUESTIONS ASKED AND ANSWERED.

QUESTION.

Tifton, Ga. I have just bought a farm here. I am a Vermonter and miss the green fields of that state. I have read a few of your letters on alfalfa with much interest. They have just cut a light crop of oats on this place, the soil sandy. I want to ask if you think I can grow alfalfa with success. If so, will you kindly tell me just what to do, where to get my seed, how to treat it, etc. Thanking you in advance, I am. D. B.

ANSWER.

You can grow alfalfa successfully at Tifton. Some as fine as was grown in Georgia this year was raised at Nashville and Ashburn, Ga., the same quality of land and practically in the same territory that you are in.

If you will plant the land that the oats have just been taken off of in speckled peas, one and one-half bushels per acre and inoculate the seed with bacteria (which you can get of Southern Inoculine Laboratories, P. O. Box 541, Atlanta, Ga., enough to inoculate five acres for $5.00.) heavily fertilize these peas broad cast with 800 pounds of fertilizer per acre composed of 500 pounds acid phosphate and 300 pounds of cottonseed meal. Pick the peas when ripe, and cut the vines in the ground with a cutaway harrow, allowing them to remain on the ground. Before cutting the vines two tons of air slack lime should be broad cast per acre and this should be planted, sown two ways away harrow. One week afterwards broad cast per acre about 1,000 pounds of fertilizer, 600 pounds of acid phosphate, 200 pounds cottonseed meal and 200 pounds of potash. Cut this in week later run a cut-away harrow over the land again. It will then be ready to receive the alfalfa seed, and twenty pounds per acre should be planted, sown two ways and covered with a peg tooth harrow. It should also be rolled on sandy land after it is planted. The seed should be inoculated. This should be done in October and it will be ready to cut in April, and the first year you can easily get from six to ten tons of splendid hay per acre. You will have no trouble in growing it if you will follow these instructions. You can get alfalfa seed from either of the seed dealers that advertise in The Journal.

QUESTION.

Columbia, Ga., Jan. Won't you please send me or have sent to me literature on inoculation? I am very much interested in getting our people started to raising truck but they know nothing but cotton and corn and it is a hard job. Could you send me some literature along that line, too?

C. H. D.

ANSWER.

If you will write Southern Inoculine Laboratories, P. O. Box 41, Atlanta, Ga., he can give you some information on the bacteria for the inoculation of peas and alfalfa.

The taking up of this work in the south will be worth millions of dollars to this country. The growing of alfalfa and peas will put feed in abundance in the south, then live stock and poultry will follow. It will bring such an abundance of cash into the south that the people will not be forced to raise cotton to secure money.

Dr. Gould can give you some valuable information.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Much Interest Shown in A., B. & A. Purchase of Parcels on West Side for Purpose of Connecting With Southern Railway—Acreage Sale at East Lake Junction—Capitol View Sale—County to Repair Peachtree Road

A good deal of interest was shown Thursday in the announcement that the A. B. and A. railroad had bought, subject to the approval of the court, several parcels of property on the west side on land around Foundry and Magnolia streets.

The transaction was handled by J. H. Ewing of the J. R. Smith and J. H. Ewing agency. The aggregate consideration is around $25,000.

The A. B. and A. is buying the property to make a connection with the Southern railway, and, it is reliably reported, for the further purpose of coming into the terminal station.

The transaction has something to do with the Walker street development. The Southern railway will lay a spur track behind the Walker street property which the owners will improve with a building suitable for manufacturing and jobbing concerns.

The A. B. and A. railroad has already reached its large freight depot in the large wholesale concerns, and is offering special inducement to manufacturing concerns to locate on its line. Agents exept the Seaboard Air Line to enter into the development of the west side eventually, as that road's line on its present freight terminals will expire in a few years.

MORE REAL ESTATE SALE.

Fincher and Marriott have sold for George W. Malone to E. P. McElroy, eight acres at the East Lake junction, fronting on Hoffman avenue and Georgia Grove avenue, for $5,000, or at the rate of $625 an acre.

The purchaser has plans for opening a subdivision of building lots.

CAPITOL VIEW SALE.

Edwin L. Harding has sold for A. P. Norris to Robin Nevoid a six room cottage on a lot 100x150 in Capitol View for $2,500.

PEACHTREE WORK.

The Fulton county commissioners on Thursday adopted a resolution presented by Commissioner Shelby Smith agreeing to commence at once the work of repairing the pavement on Peachtree from Fifteenth street to Buckhead.

A force of 25 convicts and a steam roller will be put on this work at once. The pavement will be repaired and patched.

Next year the county will repave that thoroughfare from the city limits to Buckhead.

GOVERNMENT TELS HOW EGGS MUST BE TREATED

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 12—Convinced that means could be found to overcome the loss of several million dollars a year in the egg industry, the department of agriculture has just completed an inquiry into the causes of bad and addled eggs. In a statement issued today the investigators fix the blame on the farmers and pouliterers.

"The greatest part of the loss is due mainly to carelessness, indifference on the part of farmer and producer," says the report, "and only a small part is caused by carelessness on the part of buyer and shipper."

The department urges the observance of five simple rules in the conduct of the egg industry and sets them forth as follows:

"Give the hens clean nests.

"Gather eggs at least twice daily.

"Keep eggs in a cool, dry place.

"Market eggs at least twice a week.

"Kill or sell all mature birds, as soon as the hatching season closes."

The result of the investigation has been embodied in a special pamphlet ordered printed by the department.

HER NECK BROKEN IN FALL FROM HER HORSE

ASHEVILLE, N. C., June 12.—While horseback riding with friends while visiting at Waynesville, N. C., yesterday afternoon, Miss Lillian Ledford, of Asheville, was thrown from her horse and suffered a broken neck, dying instantly. Miss Ledford's horse became frightened at an obstacle in the road and she lost control of the animal. The accident occurred near Waynesville, at the grounds of the Methodist assembly.

Miss Ledford was twenty years of age and was a member of a prominent family of this city. She had resided here several years.

GRAND VIZER IS BURIED IN CONSTANTINOPLE

(By Associated Press.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 12.—The assassinated grand vizier, Mahmoud Schefket Uasha, was buried this morning in the mausoleum on the hill of Liberty in the outskirts of the Turkish capital. On this hill many of his soldiers fell while he was leading them in the operations against Constantinople in April, 1909, when the old sultan, Abdul Hamid, was deposed.

The funeral procession today was carried out with great pomp, most of the garrison of the city participating.

IS LOBBY AT CAPITOL AN INSIDIOUS AFFAIR?

Probe Confines Its Investigation to the Question of "Insidious" Lobbying on Tariff

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Members of the senate lobby investigating committee planned to hold the investigation more strictly to the scope of the senate's instructions, when hearings were resumed today.

References to President Wilson's attitude upon the sugar tariff and frequent clashes between witnesses and committee members which characterized yesterday's session laid Chairman Overman and other members of the committee to hold the testimony strictly to the question of whether insidious lobbying is being carried on in Washington.

Several witnesses connected with the Louisiana sugar planters' campaign against free sugar were ready to be heard when the session opened. The committee expected to take up the other side of the "sugar lobby" question before the end of the day and to begin examination of men identified with the publicity campaign in favor of free sugar.

Jules Godchaux and E. F. Dickinson, two of the Louisiana planters who testified before the committee yesterday, said that only $7,200 had been raised thus far by the sugar interests to finance the Washington fight against free sugar.

Paul Christian, secretary of the Louisiana Sugar Planters' offices in Washington, first witness today, testified that all industries in Louisiana, with which the sugar men were in touch, were requested to join in writing to President Wilson what disaster they believe would follow free admission to foreign sugar. Christian said he had spent $1,181 in printing and mailing the anti-free sugar literature from his Washington offices.

Truman G. Palmer, secretary of the United States Beet Sugar association, frequently referred to in the hearings as "the best posted man" of the beet sugar forces testified he had been in Washington since 1902, when he came here to oppose the Cuban reciprocity bill.

Palmer gave a long list of members of the association he represents, which has for its object the promotion of the beet sugar industry. Part of the work of "promotion" was to look after legislation, he said.

Mr. Palmer said his present salary was $10,000 a year. Since the opening of congress in April he said his office had spent a little more than $14,000. Since he came here in 1902 he had paid out about $160,000. Since April 7 he had spent $6,314 for publicity.

About $10,000 had been spent printing "Sugar at a Glance," setting forth the best sugar argument. It was printed as a public document.

"One of the objects of sending out Sugar at a Glance' was to maintain a protective tariff, was it not?" Mr. Palmer was asked.

"That was one of the objects."

"Under whose frank has 'Sugar at a Glance' been sent through the mails?" asked Senator Reed.

"Senator Lodge's," said Mr. Palmer.

He added that charts used in the pamphlet was displayed in the senate chamber when Senator Lodge made a speech on sugar last year. Senator Reed tried to bring out that Mr. Palmer had made changes in the charts and matter accompanying them before they were made ready for distribution at public expense.

Chairman Overman announced he had sent to the government printing office for the original charts.

The committee tried to find out who in the government printing office permitted Palmer to get proofs and make changes. Palmer said he thought it was the purchasing agent and believed his name was "Hummel." He finally said if any changes had been made they must have been made with the knowledge of Senator Lodge.

"Isn't it true that when you had these charts redrawn that you added a large amount of matter?" he was asked.

"It is not," he said. "The index and introduction seem to have been added."

HALF BILLION DOLLARS READY TO MOVE CROPS

McAdoo Says Statement That $500,000,000 Was Available Don't Concern Wall Street

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Secretary McAdoo, a White House caller today, said that his statement announcing that $500,000,000 of emergency currency would be forthcoming should banks need it, was made in response to numerous inquiries from bankers. He emphasized that the issuance of the statement had nothing to do with the situation in Wall street.

The treasury department, it was stated today, had been informed by bankers that some stringency might be experienced in moving crops; if they had assurance that relief could be had they would be able to meet that situation, and that it would be of great value to business generally if they were informed now of the department's attitude.

SOUTHERN EDUCATORS TO MEET IN NASHVILLE NEXT

President M. L. Brittain, of Georgia, and Other Executives Select Tenn. City

(By Associated Press.)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 12.—The annual convention of the Southern Education association, comprising the sixteen southern states, will be held at Nashville, Tenn., October 30 and 31, and November 1 next, according to announcement today By W. F. Feagin, of Montgomery, secretary and treasurer of the organization.

The selection was made by the executive committee composed of M. L. Brittain, state superintendent of Georgia, Atlanta, president; W. J. Tate, state rural school supervisor, of South Carolina, Columbia, S. C., and Mr. Feagin.

Owing to the central location of Nashville and the fact that the dates have been so arranged as not to conflict with the annual meeting of any state educational association, the largest attendance in the history of the organization is promised.

The program will be arranged during the summer.

VON RUCK VACCINE WON'T CURE ADVANCED STAGES

(By Associated Press.)

ASHEVILLE, N. C., June 12.—Dr. Karl Von Ruck, whose anti-tuberculosis vaccine is being investigated by the naval department of the United States, issued a signed statement to the press last night wherein he declared that his vaccine was not a "cure" for the advanced stages of tuberculosis. In part he says:

"This preparation was intended primarily for preventive vaccination, and in this respect the results are manifest and indubitable. There has also been observed curative action in the early stages of the disease. But far advanced febrile and complicated cases of tuberculosis cannot expect results. In order to prevent disappointment tubercular patients should not come to this city except on the advice of their physicians."

CUBAN CONSULATE LOOKS FOR SON OF GEN. MACEO

Son of Noted Cuban Patriot Escaped From Insane Asylum on Long Island

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 12.—The Cuban consul general's office today confirmed that it is conducting a systematic search for Antonio Maceo, son of General Antonio Maceo, a Cuban patriot killed in the war with Spain, but that, aside from learning that the young man had been in an insane asylum on Long Island and had escaped on June 3, no trace of him could be found.

Young Maceo was committed to the state hospital for the insane at Central Islip, L. I., in September, 1912, after he had shown signs of extreme depression and melancholy. For some time he was in the institution under the name of "Antonio Maseon," and it was not until March last that he wrote a Cuban official of his plight and expressed the hope of release.

The letter was forwarded to the state department at Havana, with the result that the consul general here was asked to look into the case. On visiting the asylum yesterday, he learned from the superintendent that Maceo had escaped Tuesday a week ago. He is about twenty-two years old.

14-YEAR-OLD LAD TO PRISON FOR LIFE

(By Associated Press.)

AURORA, Ill., June 12.—A boy in knee pants who looked like the average boy of twelve to thirteen years old, stopped in Aurora today on his way to the Joliet penitentiary, where just after 10 o'clock he began a life term for the recent murder

The boy was Herman Coppes, fourteen years old, who last April shot and killed Mrs. Minnie Sleep at her farm home in East Plato, near Elgin, and brained her two children, a boy of two years and a girl of four.

Color Blind Squad

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, June 12.—The police department has a "color blind squad." It was selected yesterday at the civil service examination for second class detective sergeants, when 7 per cent of the policemen failed to qualify in colors.

One policeman picked four green tassels, one lavender and two blues and tassel. Another selected two pink tassels one lavender and two blues and insisted they all were the same color.

While Car Is Crossing Bridge Over Runcorn Canal, Canister Explodes

LIVERPOOL, June 12.—Explosion of a canister caused great excitement at Runcorn, sixteen miles from this city. It was thrown into the street from the window of a street car crossing the suspension bridge over the Ship canal. A local chemist said it contained sulphur and chlorate of potash.

Militant suffragettes are suspected by the authorities. In other quarters it is believed that the affair was a practical joke.

ARGENTINE DON'T LOOK ON U. S. PACKERS AS TRUST

Government Promises Probe If Americans Develop Combination

(By Associated Press.)

BUENOS AYRES, Argentina, June 12.—The American meat packers 'companies, operating in Argentina are not considered a "trust" by the Argentina government.

The minister of agriculture today, replying to a note sent to the government by six of the leading Anglo-Argentine chilled beef companies, declaring that if the present onerous situation should continue they would close their plants, said:

"After investigating the situation, the government considers that it is not called upon to modify the existing regime of liberty, which permits the development of industry in Argentina. If, however, new facts should later prove that the intentions of the American companies are to develop a combination disadvantageous to the country, we shall adopt the necessary measures to prevent such an occurrence."
